PLANS MADE TO MOVE JOBLESS INTO COUNTRY

pants a living, the government will offer them a part-time job; a home and a little plot of ground, upon which they may grow products for their own use.

Administrator Hopkins said it was likely that part-time work would be provided for many in the national forests of the far west, where a large number of persons are required to rehabilitate natural resources. He indicated that subsistence communities would be established in or near forests, as the first step in the program. The plan is designed to benefit anthracite and bituminous miners of Ohio, West Virginia, Kentucky and Pennsylvania. It may be, Hopkins indicated, that this new type of relief may be offered also to the industrial classes of certain large cities, such as Detroit.

Immediate purchase of submarginal lands is planned in the Piedmont section of Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, in the arid mid-west and the deforested area surrounding the Great Lakes.

USE ELECTRICITY IN RESUSCITATION

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 30.—(UP)—Electricity as a means of resuscitating apparently dead persons was described to physicians by Dr. Albert S. Hyman, of New York, inventor, who claimed that several experiments had been successful.

BERLIN'S HOPE FOR MONARCHY HIT BY HITLER

could originate from its insane economic stipulations.

"Millions," he declared, "begar to hate the system which made possible lasting discrimination against a powerful nation which only had the misfortune to be beaten."

He insisted that the Nazi race principles are not an undervaluation of other races but merely implied loyalty to one's own race and respect for others.

"This idea is a better foundation for world peace than a distinction between victors and vanquished on the basis of physical force."

Referring to religious matters, which have been in a highly disturbed state, Hitler said:

"We removed political organization from the churches but strengthened the churches themselves. We respect religious but urge religious bodies to give more respect to the state."

Weakens Church

He added that participation in political life weakens the religious substance of the church, and hoped the centralization of the Protestant church would satisfy those who feared its disintegration.

Hitler emphasized the difficulty of applying economic principles which would, first, save the farmers; second, crush speculation; third, permit abandonment of futile theories in order to fight unemployment, on which a new attack is planned.

"Confidence has been regained," he said, "that the people will not exist for capital but capital for the people."

Industries, he declared, have been stimulated and the country's finances put in order. He pointed out that the effects of some of the reforms may not be felt for years.

In connection with the federal reform measure, wiping out the independence of the German states, Hitler referred to the survival of the dynastic states.

"Tribes created by God will remain as long as the nation itself, but the states are man-made and therefore transitory."

Conciliatory Act

Hitler made a conciliatory gesture towards Soviet Russia, when he referred to the recent speech of Josef Stalin, who predicted a capitalist war and warned nations with designs on Russia to "keep their swinish snouts out of our Communist garden."

"Ways and means will have to be found," Hitler said, "for an understanding between the European nations, no matter whether they have a democratic or an anti-democratic character. Friendship between Germany and Russia must be maintained at any price. To the recent remarks of Mr. Stalin and to the fears he voiced, I want to reply:

"There cannot, of course, be any communist organization in Germany. It has just as little chance as a national socialist organization would have of developing in Soviet Russia. Conditions

WILL ROGERS says:

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30. (To the Editor of The Register:—) Senate layed off today on account of Huey Long going to speak tomorrow. They give 'em a day off to get rested up. Huey give me a dose of my own medicine. I generally talk everybody to death, but he got ahold of me and rehearsed his speech on me. He was trying it out on the dog. I can remember it in case anything happens to him. Since the big money stabilization bill passed Saturday everybody here is in fine cheer and great optimism. Senators all practicing dancing for the big ball. Our President is going to have a wonderful birthday. But many a lady's feet is going to suffer for their loyalty.

Yours,
WILL ROGERS.

HILLYARD MAY GET JOINT SURVEY POST

County Surveyor W. K. Hillyard was given permission today by the supervisors to accept the position as director of an aerial survey ordered for five counties in the state should it be tendered him. He told the board that the federal government has authorized an aerial survey in property use to be made in five California counties of which Orange county has been designated as one.

The money has been appropriated, the method of procedure set up and supplies are available. The only delay has been in finding a man to direct the work in the five counties. It has been indicated that Hillyard will be asked to take over the job. The project was approved under the CWA.

BYRD'S CREW WORKS TO SAVE ITS FOOD

S. S. JACOB RUPPERT, BAY OF WHALES, Jan. 30.—(UP)—(Via Mackay Radio) —Forty-four marooned members of the second Byrd Antarctic expedition fought desperately tonight to save the expedition's food supply, threatened by disintegration of the long ice front of the Bay of Whales.

The broken pressure ridge and crevasses west of the expedition's base—"Little America"—was the scene of the battle of Byrd's men, engaged in a dramatic struggle with the Antarctic for the last few days.

lon and the Fleke Jubilee Singers. Dance orchestras which will be heard during the program will be those of Paul Whiteman, Howard Barlow and Raymond Paige. In addition, the three service bands, those of the Army, the Navy and the Marine Corps, will play.

The most remote section of the Birthday Ball will be held in Antarctica, and Admiral Richard E. Byrd will be heard from that distant spot during the broadcast.

Those who will speak on the program, in addition to President Roosevelt, include Henry L. Doherty, chairman of the national committee in charge of the ball; Mayor Paul Witmer, men's general chairman; Earl Morrow, chairman of the fraternal and service club division; Rodney Bacon, chairman of the business, patriotic and labor division and all chairmen of committees working under the various divisions as well as the members of the committee themselves and all others who so wonderfully participated and worked in making the success of the birthday party assured in Santa Ana.

"I want particularly to thank J. F. Burke and The Santa Ana Register for the wonderful cooperation it has given without which it would have been impossible to advise the public of the affair," he said. "I wish to thank Mr. Paul Neff, city editor, and Kenneth Adams who served on the executive committee on publicity, for their work."

"The success of the President's Birthday Party has not been due to the feeble efforts of the general chairman, but due entirely to the division chairmen and the people working on the committee who have worked so untriflingly and unselfishly. I regret that there is not space to name every committee chairman and members who have participated in this event."

County Celebrates

Throughout the county affairs in honor of the president's birthday have been planned in a number of cities, and communities which are not staging parties of balls of their own are joining with the nearest city in the observance of the event.

At Fullerton more than 700 are expected to attend the ball and card party in the gymnasium of the high school. Candles on a cake weighing 100 pounds will be lighted by Marcelle de Mons, a little victim of infantile paralysis. William Stedman is general manager of the affair.

Anaheim celebrants have planned for the cutting of a huge cake with 52 candles at the Elks clubhouse where cards and dancing will supplement the broadcast of the President's address. Evan Aslin, is general chairman and he will be assisted by George W. Reid, Joe Elliott and J. A. Morgan.

At San Juan Capistrano, the Woman's club of that city is sponsoring a card party to be held in the high school auditorium with arrangements for the occasion in charge of the president of the club. Prizes will be given and refreshments served.

Elaborate plans for the President's ball have been completed at Laguna Beach with all organizations of the community co-operating toward making the event one of the most brilliant social events of the season. The event will be staged at the Hotel Laguna with Frank W. Cuperton, famous artist, as general chairman.

President To Dine

The president, an "absent guest" at the parties all over the nation, will hold a celebration himself with friends who helped him wage his unsuccessful campaign for the vice-presidency on the Cox ticket in 1920, according to United Press dispatches. After his dinner with "The Gang," Mr. Roosevelt will make an address thanking his supporters for observing his birthday and helping the foundation.

Thousands of birthday cards, luck tokens and presents poured in at the White House, Mayor Fiorillo La Guardia of New York wired many happy returns and "most power to you" on behalf of the fusion administration "and 7,000,000 other New Yorkers."

The Christmas rush, which set a high record in White House mail, was a mere nothing compared to the birthday. 150,000 telegrams, a like number of cards and letters, and bundles of all descriptions.

There were two dozen birthday cakes, some, unfortunately that were mashed in transit, candy, ship models, lamps, canes, pictures—enough to stock a department store. The president planned to open personally a great many of the packages.

A handsome ship model was received from Donald C. Douglass, of Santa Monica, Calif. A replica of a revolutionary war vessel, it took four men to lift it from the floor.

During the day a steady procession of mail carriers came and went at the White House lugging bags laden with letters and packages. White House workers were frank in their admission that they had never seen anything like it before.

Meanwhile, the President, as yet unaware of the tribute to him from his friends, planned to observe his birthday tonight at the White House surrounded by the associates who campaigned with him for the vice presidency in 1920.

ST. PAUL, Jan. 30.—(UP)—An underworld grapevine message that Edward G. Bremer, kidnapped banker, would not be released until federal department of justice agents were withdrawn from the case was received by St. Paul police today.

Negotiations for a $200,000 ransom have been halted, the message said, because of the activity of the federal men. Chief of Police Thomas Dahill revealed that his forces are back on routine schedules.

It was learned today that notes received from the kidnapers through Dr. H. H. Nippert, Bremer family physician, designated details for paying the ransom, but these notes were disregarded because they did not contain any proof that they were from the men who kidnapped Bremer.

FRUIT GROWERS IN PROTEST ON RATES

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Jan. 30.—(UP)—Representatives of California's $50,000,000 deciduous fruit industry today appealed directly to President Roosevelt for assistance in solving the problem of asserted excessive transportation costs to eastern markets.

"A reduction in freight charges to a proper relationship with 1909-1914 consumer costs would enable California fruit growers to market the present deciduous free fruit production at a profit in its natural and logical outlets," the president was advised by telegraph.

"We therefore appeal to you for aid in accomplishing a reasonable relationship and adjustment of present rail rates."

SENATOR LONG DEFENDS SELF DURING SPEECH

"It seems," the Kingfish shouted, "that we're going to pour the holy oil on politics in this country. Well, I'm ready to do my part in the holy oil pouring."

The galleries were crowded and the visitors burst into laughter frequently. Senator Pittman, Dem., Nev., president pro-tempore of the senate, was forced to rap for order several times.

Long said there was "not one line of evidence" in the committee's report "that anyone ever was coerced into making a campaign contribution on the threat that he might find himself without a job."

On the other hand, he added, "where is there who doesn't know that the man who pulls the plough gets the plunder in politics."

ASK DAMAGES OF $400,000 FOR TRESPASSING

Three additional suits, allegedly against members of a group of Huntington Beach oil operators who are standing aloof from other operators and refuse to negotiate any agreement with the state, were filed this morning by the state in superior court here.

The complaints were signed by Webb Shadle, attorney for the division of state lands, department of finance, who is alleged to have said that the principal defendants are members of the Oil Properties Protective Association of California, of which Thomas W.
Simmons, Los Angeles, is president and H. H. Hancock, of Huntington Beach, is secretary.

This group according to the state attorneys has approximately 40 members and is refusing to enter into any negotiations with the state relative to oil taken from the state-owned tidelands pool through state drilling. Additional suits are said to be filed today, it was said.

The three complaints filed this morning are identical with others filed by the state to halt alleged "whistleblowing" of wells in the beach field with the exception that they do not ask for temperary restraining orders. The suits filed today are seeking permanent injunctions against the operators, permanent sealing of the wells, an accounting of oil and gas produced as well as damages totaling $400,- 000 for trespassing.

In all the suits the Huntington Beach Company, Pacific Land Company, Pacific Electric Railway Company and the Standard Oil Company are named as defendants as they have been in all similar actions filed. The City of Huntington Beach, named in former suits as a co-defendant, however, was not named in the suits filed today.

Major defendants named in the first suit filed this morning were:
S. and R. O. Oil company, H. B. O. company of which City Councilman
J. H. Marion of Huntington Beach is said to be the principal owner as operators of the well, and Kneen Investment corporation, T.
Milton Erdman and W. P. Schweit-kert, landowners. H. John Eastman Ltd., and H. John Eastman as an individual, Vernon L. King and O. H. Johnson.

According to the complaint the oil companies named and Schweit-kert are holders of leases and sub-leases on the property. The well named in the suit is designated as Well No. 1 with an estimated production of 500 barrels of oil and from 100,000,000 to 100,500,- 000 cubic feet of gas daily. The state is asking for $100,000 damages for trespass.

In the second suit the major defendants are Petroleum corporation and H. B. O. company as lease and sub-lease-holders and alleged to be associated with the landowners in the drilling operations and John Edwin Towers and Elizabeth M. Towers, landowners.
The well over which the suit has arisen is Towers No. 1 with an estimated daily production of 2500 barrels of oil and from two to five millions cubic feet of gas daily.
The state is asking $200,000 damages for trespass.

The third suit filed, in addition to the four co-defendant companies named in all other suits names as principal defendants the Minnesota Oil company as landowner and
H. P. Stoltz, Bertha Mae Smith,
Anna C. Smith, Edith MacLacklan,
Walter A. MacLacklan, Rachel K.
MacLacklan, H. D. Stack, Florence
Ward, Elma T. Shoney, Fred R.
Donnelly, Edith M. Donnelly, A.
W. Lindberg and Roetta Lindberg.
The well involved is Smith No.
1, with an estimated daily production of 1000 barrels daily and from a half to one million cubic feet of gas. Damages asked for trespass amount to $100,000.

'ALL OF ME' SHOWS AT WEST COAST

"All of Me," a story of two kinds of love, of two types of women and their men, comes to the Fox West Coast theater today for a two day showing.

Four big stars are seen in the production, Frederic March as the lover of Marian Hopkins, and Helen Mack as the sweetheart of George Raft.

The story concerns a snobbish society girl, who with her wealthy fiance visits a dive while slum-ming and meets another couple, an ex-convict and his "moll." How the underworld characters teach the upper class lovers what real love is and how it should be treated proves one of the best entertainments to be seen here in a long time, theater attaches say.

SUPERVISORS ORDER LINE SURVEY MADE

County Surveyor W. K. Hillyard was instructed by the board of supervisors this morning to relocate the county line at the point it crosses the Ortega Highway and to relocate certain parcels of land in the Third Supervisorial District.
This action was taken at request of County Assessor James Sleeper who said that the true lines of the land in question and the county line are not shown on existing maps.

Loot Taken In Home Burglary Found At Delhi

Mr. and Mrs. Juan Ojeda of Delhi were taken into custody by police last night on suspicion of burglary of the home of Mrs.
Hilda Insley, on Flora street, with Ojeda, 23, being booked at the county jail at 9:30 p. m. after a search of his home revealed all the loot missing from the Insley house.

Mrs. Joe Koral, mother of Mrs.
Insley and in charge of her home temporarily, saw Mrs. Ojeda wearing one of the dresses reported stolen, and police were notified.
All the missing articles were then found in the Ojeda home, including four dresses, two window shades, four window curtains, one sheet and pillow, two table cloths and kitchen utensils. Entrance to the Insley home had been gained when a window screen was pulled loose.

MARKET MAKES PREPARATION FOR OPENING

Five tons of hams and bacon were received yesterday and today at McIntosh's Meat Market in the Empire Market, Second and Broadway, in preparation for a gigantic sale to be conducted through the balance of this week. It was announced today by Ray McIntosh, proprietor.

This huge shipment of ham and bacon was received in addition to thousands of pounds of beef, mutton, pork and other selected meats, McIntosh announced. Two men were kept busy all day yesterday unloading the hams and bacon which were stored in the big modern refrigerators at the McIntosh Market.

At the same time, stocks of groceries were being rushed into the new grocery department of the Empire Market, which is in charge of Mr. and Mrs. Bob de Britton, in preparation for the grand opening to be staged Saturday, it was announced.

The new manager of the grocery department today extended a personal invitation to residents of Santa Ana and Orange county to pay a visit to the grocery to inspect the big stock of nationally advertised goods and the prices marked on them. de Britton announced that while the grand opening will be staged Saturday, sales prices will be in effect all the balance of this week and perhaps next week.

de Britton has been associated with McIntosh in business at Huntington Beach for 15 years and is

WOMAN APPEALS TO BOARD FOR AID

Mrs. W. E. Armstrong of this city appealed to the board of supervisors for aid this morning saying that she had been unable to secure County Welfare Director B. V.
Curry or Miss Alma Carlson, worker in the department. The matter was referred to Supervisor
W. C. Jerome for investigation.
According to Mrs. Armstrong her husband has been attempting to secure work under the CWA but has been unsuccessful. She alleged that on one occasion a representative of the CWA called

DEPARTMENT OF INFORMATION UNDER SHERIFF'S DIRECTION TO HANDLE COUNTY RADIO

Following a conference this morning with chiefs of police from the various incorporated municipalities of Orange county and Capt. Henry Meehan, head of the California Highway Patrol in the county the board of supervisors announced that an agreement for operation of the county radio station has been reached.

The board also indicated that it will have prepared for adoption an ordinance similar to the one now in effect in Los Angeles prohibiting the use in automobiles of radio receiving sets capable of picking up police broadcasts. This ordinance will be adopted, it was indicated, for the purpose of preventing persons picking up calls and following police cars.

Under the agreement it is understood that the board of supervisors will institute a department of information, under direction of the sheriff, which will operate the radio and radio broadcasting station. The telephone will be operated during the hours of state operation, and the radio will give 24-hour service. All "all-point" messages received over the telephone will be broadcast over the radio at stated intervals. It is planned.

The radio station is to be available at all times to the police departments of all cities in the county and the California Highway Patrol. All broadcasts from unincorporated territories are to be given through the sheriff's office and under his direction. Broadcasts from incorporated cities are to be given to the radio station by the police departments of the particular city police department.

City broadcasts are to be given verbatim as presented, and a record kept of the wording of the message and the time of broadcast. Each city will assume responsibility for its own broadcasts.
No charge is to be made to any city or the California highway patrol for broadcasting service.

While the board approved plans for operation of the station, it was said today that appointment of operators will not be made until a later date. It is expected that the station will be installed and ready for operation early in March.

ROMAN FORUM TO BE HELD TONIGHT

Dr. Frederick W. Roman tonight in his weekly lecture and open forum at 7:30 at the Temple theater. Third and Bush streets.
He will present many interesting current events and a lecture on "The significance of the Thought of the 18th Century, according to an announcement from the Roman Forum."

According to Dr. Roman, the discussion on the significance of the thought of the 18th century will involve the developing ideas in religion, in science, in politics and in economic and political freedom. It was a growing demand in that century for liberty of expression that led to the French and American revolutions and the formation of the American code of freedom, according to the forum leader.

During the current events and forum period the discussion will center around "Our Neighbors and Ourselves." There is no charge for admission.

FOUR ROOMS OF ROOSEVELT SCHOOL CLOSED

Four rooms of the Roosevelt school were ordered closed last night by the Santa Ana board of education and repair work started immediately, following submission of a report by Jules Markel for the committee of local contractors that has been inspecting earthquake damaged school buildings in the city. This inspection is supplementary to the inspection recently completed by the state.

Franklin school was closed last week on order of the school board, a portion of Spurgeon school was closed several weeks ago as was the auditorium at Edison school, and the high school auditorium has been closed since receipt of the state report on the high school.

Markel reported that four rooms of the Roosevelt plan are unsafe for occupancy as the weight of the roof on the Maple street side is causing the ceiling to sag approximately two inches. Repairs on the school that will make it safe for occupancy will not cost in excess of $1000, according to Markel's report.

Motion to close the unsafe portions of the school and start repairs immediately was made by Rolla Hays who later made a second motion authorizing Business Manager George Newcomb to have the necessary repairs made. To John Muir, McKinley and Lowell schools along the lines suggested in Markel's report.

In his report relative to Roosevelt school Markel recommended horizontal bracing to strengthen the roof and strengthening of the sagging ceilings. He also said that as safety measures the fire-stop partition should have a trap door and there should be an exit to the outside from the boiler room.

At McKinley school, according to Markel the entire roof section should be gone over, strengthened and reroofed. Firestops should be installed and an exit from the boiler room to the outside.

At Lowell school the roof requires strengthening and reroof-ing and bracing is required under the floor joists. The firestops should be extended and an exit to the outside provided for the boiler room, the report said.

Recommendations relative to the John Muir school were contained in a previous report and provided for practically the same work—strengthening the roof. Markel said last night that all the work recommended to make the buildings safe for occupancy could be done at a maximum charge of $1000 per school.

Funds for the repairs will come from the general fund of the school district making it unnecessary to submit plans to state architects and rebuilding the schools to comply with the present state code.

EDUCATIONAL PASTOR POINTS PROGRAM TO TO ACTIVITY OF START FEB. 15 JESUS' LIFE

Planning to start locally by February 15 the Federal Emergency Educational program planned for this city probably will be announced sometime this week, according to W. W. Wieman, in charge of registering applications for work and preparing the program.

The program, he said, will be conducted under the adult education department of the city schools and, under provisions laid down by the federal government can offer any educational subject if there is sufficient demand and a suitable teacher can be found.

Wieman said that the purpose of the educational program, being sponsored by the federal government is the teaching of adults and at the same time furnishing employment for those persons qualified to teach. This qualification, he said must be based upon ability to teach and the need for employment. Applications for employment need not be certificated.

Subjects offered under this program, according to Wieman must come under one of the following heads: English to foreigners; home making; agriculture; trade and industry; commercial; social; recreation; vocational; nursery school (this is the only school allowed that is not for adults); and general education.

Wieman said that there are approximately 40 teachers now registered for work. Many of the applicants are from other Orange county communities. He said that while he will continue to accept registration from teachers from other communities employment in the Santa Ana program will have to go to those teachers registered from this city as the courses will be administered by the Santa Ana High School district. Teachers registered from out of town however can seek employment through their own districts when the districts have prepared their own projects.

Catarrhal Deafness And Head Noises

TELLS SAFE, SIMPLE WAY TO TREAT AND RELIEVE AT HOME

If you have catarrh, catarrhal deafness or head noises caused by catarrh, or if phlegm drops in your throat and has caused catarrh of the stomach or bowels you will be glad to know that these distressing symptoms may be entirely overcome in many instances by the following treatment which you can easily prepare in your own home at little cost.

Secure from Walgreen's, McCoy Drug, or your druggist 1 ounce of Farnum (Double Strength).
Take this home and add to it 1/4 pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar; stir until dissolved. Take one tablespoonful four times a day. An improvement is sometimes noted after the first day's treatment. Breathing should become easy, while the distressing head noises, head-aches, dullness, cloudy thinking, etc., should gradually disappear under the tonic action of the treatment. Loss of smell, taste, defective hearing and mucus dripping in the back of the throat are other symptoms which suggest the presence of catarrh and which may often be overcome by this efficacious treatment. It is said that nearly ninety per cent. of all ear troubles are caused by catarrh and there must, therefore, be many people whose hearing may be restored by this simple, harmless home treatment.

ARCHITECT AND FORMER STATE SCHOOL BUILDING OFFICIAL MAKE DENIAL OF COLLUSION

Denial of collusion or unfair tactics in their dealings with the Santa Ana board of education were made last night by John Allison and A. P. Hill who appeared before members of the board and an audience that filled the board room. Allison was the first speaker and when he was introduced by Chairman George Wells he was applauded by the audience which was made up principally of members of various P.-T. A. organizations.

Allison opened his talk by referring to "articles in a local newspaper which treated the architect as a villain." He declared that he did not know what was behind the statements about members of the firm and their relation with Hill and Hill's work for the state.

He said that Hill came to Southern California representing the schoolhouse planning division of the state department of education, for the purpose of working with architects and informing them what would be approved by the schoolhouse planning division and what would be rejected. He said that he had contacted Hill several times while Hill was representing the state and there was absolutely no connection between his firm and the state officer.

Hill was brought to Santa Ana, Allison said, because he felt it the duty of his firm, having been invited to appear before the board, to have Hill explain what funds were available as he knew more about that phase of the rehabilitation program than anyone else.

Allison said that Hill was not made an offer to join the firm of Allison and Allison until the day he had completed his work in Southern California and was preparing to return to Sacramento. He had completed all negotiations with the local board at that time, Allison said. He said that on the day Hill was to leave for Sacramento it occurred to him that through his knowledge of school building and requirements Hill would be a valuable addition to the firm.

He said that if the board of education doubts the integrity and honesty of the firm of Allison and Allison and is not absolutely sure that the printed charges are false he will give a sworn statement setting out all circumstances of the offer to Hill and the dates on which the dealing occurred.

Allison said that whoever wrote the article appearing in the newspaper had taken circumstantial evidence and woven it into a report that was terrible for a professional man. He said that a professional man's greatest asset is his reputation and never before

BEEKEEPERS OF COUNTY NAME LUSH LEADER

C. E. Lush, Orange beekeeper and president of the California Beekeepers association, was re-elected chairman of the Orange County Farm Bureau Beekeepers department. It was announced today following the annual meeting in the Farm Bureau office.

G. R. Twombly of Fullerton was named vice president and A. A. McDougal, of Santa Ana, was re-elected secretary.
More than 75 honey men attended the meeting and entered into discussion of the various problems confronting the honey industry. Lush, reporting on the recent state conference at Modesto, said that the future of the honey industry is in the hands of the housewife, and that it will be necessary for the industry to show her, the spender of the family budget, the merits of honey as a food.

Functions of the American Honey Institute were reviewed by Roy Bell, of Orange, who urged all producers to help maintain the organization he said is telling the world the story of honey in diet.

R. K. Bishop, Orange county apary inspector, described the present condition of bees in this district. In many cases they are honey-bond, he said, because of the excellent flow from eucalyptus trees at this time. He recommended that beekeepers arrange now for more room for brood expansion.

There are more orange blossoms this winter than for many seasons, he said.
W. C. Childers, director of the Orange County Production Credit association, announced that the organization has approved a crop

PLAN TO HALT BULK MAYONNAISE SALE

In response to the suggestion of health authorities, who have objected to the careless handling of bulk mayonnaise when sold out of large open crocks and pans in retail stores, practically every mayonnaise manufacturer in Southern California has stopped this type of distribution. It was announced in Los Angeles today by W. F. L. Tuttle of New York, executive head of the Mayonnaise Institute.

This has been done, Tuttle said, with the hearty co-operation of important retail groups anxious to protect the public health in every way. They include the Safeway Stores, Ralph's, and the great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co. Hundreds of individual retailers also have stopped the retail sale of bulk, and are selling mayonnaise only in sanitary glass containers.

California firms that have decided against continuance of the bulk mayonnaise evil include the Kraft-Phenix Cheese Corp., C. R. Cheney company, the Best Foods, Inc., B. S. Pearall company, of Long Beach, the Hill Food Products company, the Gelfand Manufacturing company, Durkee Famous Foods, Inc., the Ide Packing company, the Quality Potato Chip company, and XLNT Spanish Food company.

GARBAGE TRASH DISPOSAL OFFER MADE TO CITY

An application of a Los Angeles man to collect rubbish and garbage in this city for less money than is now being spent under a municipal system, was considered by the city council last night and referred to Street Commissioner A. C. Hansenjaeger for investigation.

Roy Mooshagian offered to haul the combustible and non-combustible trash and garbage for $2150 per month or $25,800 per year, while the city now spends $29,000 annually to have these services performed by city employees. Mooshagian said he held the contract for the city of Huntington Park and would guarantee to pay his Santa Ana drivers $4 per day and helpers $2.50 if given a contract.

City Engineer J. L. McBride expressed doubt that the concern could perform as efficient service as is now being received. He said Mooshagian entered a bid of $42,000 two weeks ago and when he learned that the city now spent only $29,000, pared his figure to $25,800. McBride said that the estimate was based on Huntington Park conditions, where there is about 28,000 population in three square miles, while there is a 32,000 population here in 11 square miles.

McBride also called attention to several features now offered by the city, such as special hauling of trash for citizens, thorough disposal of trash and follow-up street sweeping in the business district, and more logical and efficient arrangement of shifts.

CITY ORDERS POLICE RADIOS FROM COUNTY

Appraised that a saving of $10 per unit could be saved if the city of Santa Ana purchased radio sets for police cars in co-operation with other cities and law enforcement agencies of the county, the city council last night agreed to let County Purchasing Agent W. W. Slabaugh do the buying.

City Auditor Lloyd Banks said that Bosch radio sets were to be purchased at a cost of $89 each through the county. Santa Ana will probably buy four sets for police cars, in addition to which the radio company agrees to have two extra sets at their local agency for relief work or emergencies, he said.

Banks pointed out that the uniformity in sets throughout the county would greatly simplify buying, repairing and operation.

Lover Of Dumb Animals Appears Before Council

Expressing indignation that complaints about her pet refuge should be made at city council meetings and later published in the newspapers, Mrs. Rose Thurnauer, 323 East Camille street, wrote a letter and appeared before the council last night.

She denied statements made to the council by a neighbor, George Allen, 324 East Myrtle street, and others, that she harbored more than 30 cats and a great many dogs at her home. She said she formerly had only five cats and had disposed of all but two. She claimed she only had three dogs, which were not noisy as complaints indicated.

Mrs. Thurnauer pointed out that other dog lovers had many more pets than she kept, with no complaints being received, that she had performed a great service during the past nine years in maintaining a home for pets and had helped to start and erect a dog pound here. She suggested also that additional quarters be built and shrubbery planted at the dog pound.

The council assured her that any legal action concerning complaints would be referred to the city attorney, that the newspapers published only what transpired at the meetings and that there was no intent to discriminate against her in any way.

American automobile production in 1933 increased 43 per cent over 1932, while foreign sales were 29 per cent over last year's figures, according to preliminary computations from the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce. Newport Beach To Hold Discussion On School Plans

NEWPORT BEACH, Jan. 30.—Discussion of the Newport Beach school building problem will take place at a meeting called by the Newport Harbor Chamber of Commerce and the school trustees at the Legion last Wednesday night at 7:30 o'clock. It was announced today. All citizens of the city are urged to be present.

The plan proposed by the school trustees has met with opposition by chamber members, who are urging that a substitute project, entailing less expenditure of money, be adopted.

WINDOW BREAKAGE DAMAGE SETTLED

A plate glass window is nice to look through but it may cause a lot of trouble. That's what the city council decided last night regarding a broken window pane at the Bristol Drug store.

There was a large crack in one of the store windows which was not repaired. While city employees under the CWA were constructing a curb return in front of the store last week, a flying piece of cement broke a small hole in the already cracked window. The owner was told he would have to wait until the council meeting last night to get financial aid from the city or could fix the window at once to protect an adjoining pane. He chose to wait and had the misfortune to experience a slight wind last weekend, which not only blew out the broken window but the adjoining one as well.

The council finally agreed to pay half the cost of the original half of the broken window.

CHANGE LOCATION OF FIRE DRILL TOWER

To allow more room for fire equipment and simplify training, the location of the new fire drill tower has been changed from the city yards on West Walnut street to a location at 917 West Walnut street, on the same premises as an existing water well tower, the city council was notified last night by City Engineer J. L. McBride and Fire Chief John Luxembourg.

It was pointed out that since CWA workers were prepared to start work today on the framework, the decision had been made to move the location before the council met. More turning room for fire trucks is provided at the new base, as well as more room for training activities. It was suggested that trees could be planted on the front of the lot to partially hide the tall tower.

Council Grants Garage Permit

Carl Mays, representing the Sears New and Used Parts garage, was granted an application by the city last night to open a garage and used car market at 601-3 East Fourth street.

It was pointed out by the council that should Mays deviate from his application request and conduct a wrecking business outside of his garage, the permit would be revoked. He had previously asked permission to operate a wrecking yard at the location but had his application denied two weeks ago when the planning commission ruled that the premises were not zoned for that type of business.

Thomas Elected Plane Club Head

Lynn Thomas was elected president of the Santa Ana Model Airplane club last Friday night when that group held its organization meeting at the Chamber of Commerce. Duane Holmes was named secretary. The next meeting of the club will be held Wednesday night at 7:30 in the manual training department at the high school. An invitation is extended to all Santa Ana boys who wish to join the organization.

Dr. George McClelland, advisor for The Hawks, Fullerton airplane model builders, attended the meeting and talked on "Theory of Flight." There were 20 members of the Santa Ana club present.

CITY REFUSES DEMAND FOR $1350 DAMAGES

The demand of Roger McCarthy, Negro bootblack, 719 East Second street, for $1350 damages for injuries sustained from being shot in the hand while police officers were chasing a shoplifter in the business district on December 21, was denied by the city council last night on the recommendation of City Attorney Clyde Downing.

McCarthy asked $1000 personal damages, $300 for loss of services while his hand was healing and $50 for medical expenses. He claimed that Officer J. F. McWilliams shot him at the corner of Third and Bush streets while pursuing another person, unknown to McCarthy. Charles Swanner, attorney for McCarthy, indicated that he would settle for the payment of hospital fees.

McWilliams denied that he shot McCarthy, saying that he shot in the air three times to halt a fleeing shoplifter and that he was in an alley and that the bullet could not have struck the bootblack at the time he fired the last shot. He and Sergeant C. V. Adams, also chasing the other man, asserted that an unknown motorist stopped his car on Third street and fired at the shoplifter, accidentally hitting McCarthy. No trace of the mysterious assailant was ever found by police.

An empty shell from a .38 caliber gun was found in the street and a leading physician who examined McCarthy said the wound was caused by a steel-jacket .38 bullet. McWilliams fired a .38 revolver with soft bullets and contended that his charge would have torn McCarthy's hand severely.

COUNCIL NOTES

The application of Robert Williams, 1041 West Second street, for a permit to drive a taxi for the Broadway Cab company, was withdrawn by Williams preceding the night session of the city council. It was learned by City Clerk Ed Vegely when questioned by the taxi committee.

Dr. K. H. Sutherland, county health superintendent, submitted the quarterly report of October, November and December, covering health activities in the city of Santa Ana, at the city council meeting last night.

Funeral Services For H. B. Oil Man Set For Tomorrow

Funeral services for Bert Johnson, 43, of Midway City, who was killed while working on an oil rig in the Huntington Beach field, will be held at the Dixon chapel, in the beach city, Wednesday afternoon, at 2 o'clock, with members of the Masonic order in charge.

An inquest was conducted by Coroner Earl Abbey this morning, a verdict of accidental death being returned. Johnson suffered a fractured skull, broken neck and other injuries when he was crushed between a steel cable and the rig "spool."

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 20 years, and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, just a healing, soothing vegetable laxative safe and pleasant. No griping is the "keynote" of the little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They help cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

"If you have a 'dark brown mouth'—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation, you should find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets.

Thousands take them every night to keep right. Try them. 15c, 30c, 60c.—Adv.

Why thousands of far-sighted Californians name Bank of America Executor-Trustee in their Wills

As Executor and Trustee, Bank of America has proved itself efficient and trustworthy. It offers financial responsibility, broad experience, thorough reliability, permanence, punctuality, efficiency, accuracy, safety, economy and constant availability. It is impartial and unprejudiced—yet always humanly considerate. For the welfare of their heirs and their own peace of mind, thoughtful, far-visioned men and women appoint a corporate Executor and Trustee instead of an individual. They do this in order to insure an efficient and dependable administration of their estates. All the advantages of Bank of America Trust Service are obtainable at a cost no greater than the fees allowed by law to an individual acting in the same capacity; and frequently by reason of superior service the cost is actually less. Our officers at any branch will gladly give you any desired information without placing you under the slightest obligation.

Three 'Yips' for Brown

JAYSEE WITHOUT COACH BUT BALL CLUB PLANNED ANYWAY; EIGHT VETERANS AVAILABLE

Prospects for a winning baseball team at Santa Ana junior college this season appear even brighter than in 1932, when Coach Clyde Cook's Dons won the Eastern conference title.

Eight returning lettermen, all good hitters, will be among those reporting for the sport within the next few days.

On account of his confining duties as head of the physical education department, W. W. ("Bill") Foote will be unable to coach high school ball this year, so he has transferred Coach to the Santa Ana Dons.

In addition to Koral, who earned his spurs two years ago, returning lettermen include Joe Koral, brother of "Bono," second base; "Porky" Bell, first; Leo Morse, shortstop; Art Wilde, third; and Bill McDaniel, Dick Clark and Wendall Kanawyer in the outfield. Returning reserves are Ray Furuta, pitcher, and Dave Whitford, outfielder.

Gordon Mallett, first string gunner for Santa Ana Hi last season, enrolled this week, and looms as the jaysee's No. 1 pitcher. If he fails to come up to expectations, however, the versatile "Bono" Koral probably will do the flinging, and "Red" McDaniel will work behind the plate, a position he held in '33. Reg Lake, Huntington Beach transfer, and Clyde Birdson, former Saint player, are other prospects, and there are reported to be at least 10 others ready for the first call.

HORSE GOSSIP

Equipoise needs $54,000 to reach the money-winning record of Sun Beau, which happens to be $276,744. . . . considering that he is the best horse in America and ran mostly on three legs doing it, what will he accomplish hitting on all four?

Pete Bostwick will ride Chango in the Grand National . . . last year he fell with his steed at Becher's Brook. . . . There is now continuous horse racing in the United States, with never fewer than three tracks in operation . . . two of the more successful tracks are Epsom Downs, at Housatonic, and Rockingham Park, at Salem, N. H. . . . both promoted by daring young Lou Smith.

BEST AND WORST

Statisticians rate 100-pound Jack Westrope the best jockey in the land . . . with Don Meade a close second . . . and Earl Porter, sensation of the winter tracks, third. . . . Ratings go all the way from $7 for Westrope down to 40 for a lad named J. Dupuy. . . . 80 is regarded as an excellent rating . . . there are only seven jockeys with that rating or better . . . besides Westrope, Meade and Porter, Coach, Humphries and Hunter, the aging Sonny Workman gets 79.

If horse racing continues to grow as it has in the last 10 years, maybe the sport will need a Judge Landis . . . anyway, the Turf and Sport Digest figures it does need a supreme court . . . and suggests former Vice President Charles H. Curtis, himself a former jockey, as dictator.

THIS AND THAT

Black Toney is the only horse that ever sired two Derby winners . . . one being Black Gold . . . the other Broker's Tip. . . . The late Harry Payne Whitney was the most successful breeder of great money winners . . . eight of his horses won a total of $1,500,000.

Peter Pan is the only American brood mare sire whose daughters have produced two $200,000 winners . . . Flyatit produced Top Flight, which earned $275,000 . . . Prudery is the dam of Victorian, winner of $253,425.

A race track near Melbourne, Australia, runs through a tunnel on the back stretch . . . when the track was laid out, the builders had their choice of tearing down a hill or using an abandoned railroad tunnel, about 150 yards long . . . strange stories were told of odd business among the jockeys as they rode through this dusky stretch . . . finally it was lighted, and stewards were stationed to guard against crooked work.

QUESTIONS

Lightweight Champion Barney Ross is named as guarantor of $35,000 to Jimmy McLarnin for a crack at Baby Face's welterweight crown . . . If Jeena turns down an offer like that we'd like to ask just what the boy wants.

Lena Levy comes forward with the assertion that her kid brother Harry Krakow, also known as Kingfish Levinsky, is "colossal." . . . Wonder if she is talking about his nerve?

The yacht being built at Bristol, R. I., for the defense of the America's cup will be called the Rainbow . . . what will they find at the end of the Rainbow's cruise?

There Must Be Many

Two Iowa freshmen basketball stars hopped a freight train after letting it be known they intended to matriculate at the University of Southern California . . . maybe the Carnegie Foundation for the Suppression of Prosealing should be queried about that . . . but our only concern in this instance happens to be: how many freshmen would do the young men discover in California?

Burleigh Grimes has let it be known that he will win 15 games for the Cardinals this year . . . Is it possible that Burleigh has been too lustily celebrating repeal of the eighteenth amendment?

Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis announced that he has not changed his mind about Joe Jackson and other members of the Black Sox who were banned from organized baseball for throwing the world series to the Reds back in 1919 . . . do you think he should?

Max Schmeling is training for a bout with Steve Hamas, an engagement which he hopes will lead to further profitable ring toll. . . . I am pondering if the fact that Max is very much married now will make any difference in his work.

WELL HARDLY

Orville Drouillard, weighing 126 pounds, defeated Pee Wee Gale, 123 pounds, at Detroit the other night . . . are you all excited?

Kinney Matsuyama of New York, winning four games and losing one in the national three-cushion billiard tournament, went into a three-way tie for the leadership . . . neither am I.

Jack Sharkey says he thinks that Carnera will have no trouble at all beating Tommy Loughran . . . do you think that Jack Sharkey really thinks?

Long Beach Tennis Match Sale Brisk

LONG BEACH, Jan. 30.—One of the brightest spots on the Tilden-Vines tennis tour, will be the playing floor of the Municipal auditorium here, according to Jack Horner, auditorium manager. Bill O'Brien, Tilden's manager, requested that a minimum of 10,000 seats be provided for the stellar net quartet when they play here Wednesday night.

Total wagers that will be provided for the match will be $80,000, giving a virtual daylight effect through indirect lighting.

DONS OPPOSE PHOENIX HOOPMEN

50 SAINTS HEED CALL TO TRACK; COOK TO COACH

Cinderpath training was officially under way at Santa Ana high school today, with an even 50 candidates registered for the spring sport.

Coach Bill Cook will divide his attention between prep track and junior college basketball for at least a month, since his Dons will not finish the court season until February 24. He probably will arrange all of the remaining jaysee basketball drills at night.

Limbering up exercises will occupy the time of most candidates this week, although those who reported several days ago will be instructed to begin concentrating on their particular events. The annual interclass meet will be held within two weeks, Coach Cook said.

Art Stranek, blond shot putter who looms as one of the best of Southland prep this year, captains the half-hundred aspirants.

Other experienced performers who registered the first day were Charles Ortiz, 880; Willard Axworthy, petite blonder who was the distance ace of the "Bees" last season; and Erwin Youel, ex-Willard junior high vaulter who did 10:6 as a ninth-grader.

Bill Hawkins, hurdler, was not listed on the official roster, but was in suit briefly yesterday.

The Saints will be divided into varsity and middleweight ranks within the next few days. The complete turnout follows:

Stanford's Grid Stars Busy With Other Activities

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Jan. 30.—Stanford football players who closed their season in the Rose Bowl at Pasadena New Year's day are busily engaged in other sports.

Among those who have donned other uniforms are "Monk" Moscrip and Wes Muller, boxing; Claude Galloway, Gordon Dunn, George Leedy and Bob Reynolds, track; Bobby Grayson and "Bones" Hamilton, baseball; Ben Palamont, Johnny Reiser, "Chuck" White and Ray Lewis, rugby, and Keith Topping, basketball. Bill Elm is playing regularly on the rugby team and doing some boxing on the side.

Golfer's Drive Strikes Board, Returns To Tee

SAN MATEO, Jan. 30.—(UP)—For a freak golf shot—or shots—think this one over. J. F. Abrams, of San Mateo, drove off the difficult thirteenth tee on the Coyote Point golf course yesterday, directly into a water hazard. The ball struck a two-by-four in the water and bounced back to the tee. He then used a brassie and dropped the ball on the apron of the green.

Corbett Installed 2 To 1 Over Marino

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 30.—(UP)—Young Corbett, clever Fresno, was a 2 to 1 favorite today to defeat Al Marino, San Francisco, in the former welterweight champion's debut into middleweight ranks next Monday in a ten-round bout here. Corbett should weigh about 155 pounds. Promoters plan to send Corbett against Vince Dundee, middleweight king; "Gorilla" Jones and Frank Battaglia in future bouts.

Like all fat men, Bob "Fatty" Fothergill, former Detroit Tigers and Red Sox outfielder, is funny. One of the most comical tales told about the cherubic Fatty was related by Harry Heilmann, former Detroit team-mate of the round one.

Ty Cobb, then manager of the Tigers, was keeping check on Fatty's behavior. He walked into Heilmann's room, which Harry shared with Fothergill, at about one o'clock in the morning, and waited until 2:30 for Fatty to show up.

At that hour Fatty appeared outside the room door, which had been locked and demanded in a loud voice to be admitted. On entering, he patted his rounded paunch and said:

"Say Harry, I don't think there's another bottle of beer to be had in New York."

At which Cobb popped out from behind a door where he had hidden and Fothergill's jaw fell.

"Well?" he snapped at Fatty.

"Aw, I was only kiddin'," the culprit stammered.

"That's swell," shouted Ty. "But that'll cost you 50 bucks, and I'm not kiddin'!"

DIAMOND BRIDE

A great batting eye has Riggs ("Old Moss") Stephenson, star Chicago Cub outfielder, and a great one for beauty, too, as he showed when he chose Miss Alma Chadwick, below, of Hot Springs, Ark., as his bride.

BRUINS' TRACK SQUAD SPOTTY; LUVALLE STAR

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 30.—Strong on the track but spotty in field events, U. C. L. A.'s most promising track team to date will participate in an eleven meet schedule for its 1934 season.

Outstanding is Jimmy LuValle, ICAA 400-meter titleholder, whose mark of 46.9 seconds was the best registered last year and the third fastest time ever recorded.

He will have exceptional support in the 440 from Sinclair Lott, who is expected to run close to 48 flat. In the four-man-mile relay, Lott and LuValle will be teamed with two of the following four runners: Ray Vejar and James Miller, members of the '33 relay squad; William Murphy, a promising middle-distance runner; or Tom Donlon, distance runner.

The Bruins will have fine hurdlers in Fred Anderson, defeated but once in freshman and prep school competition; co-captain James Miller, Carl Dwire, and Bernie Miller, one of the coast's best hurdlers two seasons ago. Miller returns to school next semester following a year's leave of absence.

The two Millers (not related) and Anderson give every indication of running consistently under 15 seconds in the highs and beating 24 in the lows.

Coach Harry Trotter looks for 880 races of well under two minutes from Henry and Murphy, both sophomores.

Of the field events the javelin appears strongest. Bill Reitz, who will not report until the conclusion of the basketball season, threw the spear better than 180 feet as a freshman last year and close to 200 in fall track practice. Kenneth Griffin, transfer from Compton Jaysee, looks good for 185.

Three high jumpers—Allington and Houghton, sophomores, and Martin, senior—should hit six feet without difficulty. Bob Green, L. A. Jaysee transfer, has broad-jumped better than 23 feet.

Massey and Cressell may hit 13 feet in the pole vault. Pair times are expected in the sprints from co-captain Bob McLean, Blatherwick, Bradley and Cheshire.

Following is the revised schedule:

Mar. 3—Pomona at U. C. L. A.; Mar. 10—Riverside and Compton J. C. at U. C. L. A.; Mar. 17—Fresno State at U. C. L. A.; Mar. 24—California at Coliseum; Apr. 7—San Jose State at U. C. L. A.; Apr. 14—Stanford at Stanford; Apr. 21—Southern California at Coliseum; May 12—West Coast Relays at Berkeley; May 19—California Intercollegiate at Berkeley; June 1—L. C. A. A. A. at Philadelphia; June 22—N. C. A. A. A. at Coliseum.

Like all fat men, Bob "Fatty" Fothergill, former Detroit Tigers and Red Sox outfielder, is funny. One of the most comical tales told about the cherubic Fatty was related by Harry Heilmann, former Detroit team-mate of the round one.

Ty Cobb, then manager of the Tigers, was keeping check on Fatty's behavior. He walked into Heilmann's room, which Harry shared with Fothergill, at about one o'clock in the morning, and waited until 2:30 for Fatty to show up.

CALIENTE OPEN BLAHOLDER OF LURES GOLFING BROWNS SIGNS; CARAVAN SOUTH GETS INCREASE

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 30.—(UP)—Goldfom's leaders headed for the Mexican border today for the crowning event of the California winter gold trail, the $7500 Agua Caliente Open, which tomorrow starts a run of four days.

On the basis of results from the Los Angeles, San Francisco, Pasadena, Santa Monica, Long Beach and Riverside tournaments, this big test of the season finds a group of "dark horse" professionals menacing the thrones of veterans who in the past have been unqualified favorites.

The veteran MacDonald Smith of Nashville, nevertheless, held top ranking as the heaviest money winner of the winter.

Winning of the Los Angeles Open put Smith ahead in earnings with a total of $2182.64 from all tournaments. Paul Runyan of White Plains, N. Y., defending Agua Caliente champion, is next with $136, and Tom Creavy of Albany, who won the San Francisco match-play tourney, has made $977.

The Agua Caliente, which began as a $25,000 event, the biggest in golfing history, will be worth $1500 to the winner this year. Second place will carry a prize of $1000; third, $800; fourth, $700, and fifth, $600. There will be prizes in all for the first 25 players, the smallest receiving $60.

Tourney officials announced pairings today for the first of the four 18-hole rounds. The field is composed of 175 players, the largest in the tournament's five-year history.

First to leave the tee will be Denny Shute, British Open champion; Leo Diegel and Bobby Cruickshank.

Another important threesome will be Horton Smith, Mac Smith and Al Espinosa, while directly behind them come Runyan, Craig Wood and Joe Kirkwood.

BRUIN, TROJAN HOOP TEAMS BATTLE SAT.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 30.—Seeking their sixth straight victory over their city rivals, University of Southern California basketball players will meet U. C. L. A.'s bucketeers at the Olympic auditorium here Saturday night in the second contest of the 1934 four-game series. The Trojans won the first start ten days ago by a 39-26 score. The third and fourth games of the series will be staged February 23 and 24.

Southern California and U. C. L. A. have had their ups and downs in the battle for local basketball supremacy, and while the Trojans are considerably ahead now in the number of victories, the institutions are tied in series wins and losses. In the six years that they have been meeting in basketball, each institution has won three series.

The Trojans started their present winning streak over the Bruins in the last game of the 1932 series. By winning all three contests this season, the Southern Californians have set the present record of consecutive wins in Trojan-Bruin competition at five straight.

Mountain Lion Kill Slumps To 269 During 1933

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 30.—Mountain lions are getting scarcer in California. During 1933 the kill of these animals, the most devastating enemy of deer, as well as cattle and other domestic stock, fell off considerably. The bounties paid by the state fish and game commission on lions for the year 1933 was against 235 for 1932.

During the past four years 54 per cent of the scalps turned in were of female lions, one of the most important factors in the decrease of these beasts.

Since bounties on mountain lions were first paid in 1907 there has been 6665 of these predators taken out of circulation by state lion hunters and others who sought to make a little extra money by collecting the bounty of $20 for a male and $30 for a female.

Santa Barbara led other counties in lions killed during December with 5. Monterey and Tulare accounted for 4 each; Kern and Trinity for 2 apiece, while Shasta and Humboldt had one each—a total of 19, of which 12 were females.

Jimmy LuValle Fine Scholar As Well As Runner

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 30.—Jimmy LuValle, L. C. A. A. A. 400-meter record holder, is a first-class student as well as an outstanding athlete.

The fleet U. C. L. A. runner's average for two years of college studies is 2.576, just under the mark of 3.000 given for perfect work.

Even more impressive is the fact that the figure was attained in chemistry, physics, mathematics and languages—deadly subjects for the average student. Following graduation here in 1935 he intends to seek a Ph. D. in chemistry.

Coincident with a revival of rumors that New York's Yankees were trying to make a trade for the big Garden Grove pitcher, George Blaeholder today intimated he was well pleased with the terms of the 1934 contract he received from the St. Louis Browns yesterday.

The club gave Blaeholder a substantial increase in salary as well as a verbal pat on the back, Manager Rogers Hornsby indicating that around Blaeholder and one or two others he was building hopes for an improved showing from the lowly Browns. Hornsby thanked Blaeholder for his services last year, when he was one of the most effective members of the Browns staff, and he said he was counting on him more than ever for the coming season.

This is one of the few years that Blaeholder has not engaged in spring contract warfare with the Browns, traditionally a hard club to do business with. Several years ago he was a violent holdout, remaining at his home near Garden Grove until well after the season began rather than accept a sharp deduction in salary.

Blaeholder plans to leave Garden Grove about the middle of February, motoring to Tulsa for a brief visit with Mrs. Blaeholder's parents before continuing to West Palm Beach, Fla., where his club will train. He reports March 1.

According to newspaper dispatches from New York, the Yankees again have entered the bargaining for Blaeholder. The reports received considerable credence when Louis R. Von Wiese, St. Louis president, spent the week-end in conference with Yankee officials.

One of the correspondents sent out a story as follows:

"The Yankees still are after George Blaeholder, Browns' right-handed pitcher, who has spent almost an entire major league career being sought by the New York management. In the Yankee side of the barter, which has been threatened all winter, the names of a couple of shortstops, Lyn Lary and Frank Crosetti, have been mentioned, along with pitchers 'Red' Ruffing and Danny MacFayden. All are considered trading material in the Yankee quest for a reliable right-hander and an able-bodied hitting outfielder to aid young Ben Chapman and the aging Babe Ruth and Earle Combs with the stadium pasture patrol."

Locally, it was considered possible that the Browns wanted Blaeholder under contract before they arranged a deal for him.

Saint Game With Hares Moved Back

Instead of opposing Long Beach Poly here Friday, as listed on the Coast Preparatory league schedule, Santa Ana's Saints will play their home basketball game with the Jackrabbits Saturday night. Coach Reese Greene stated today. The change was made at the request of Long Beach, officials, who said their gym will not be available Saturday.

Walker Gets Draw With Bob Godwin

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., Jan. 30.—(UP)—Mickey Walker, New Jersey, and Bob Godwin, Adel, Ga., fought ten rounds to a draw here last night.

Walker's strong finish saved him from defeat after Godwin had carried the fight to him through the earlier rounds. Godwin's only hard blow came in the eighth when he bounced Walker against the ropes with a right. Walker weighed 175; Godwin 175-1-2.

Live R 'bit Used To Train Race Dog

SAN JOSE, Jan. 30.—(UP)—A state-wide campaign against methods used in training dogs for racing was threatened by the State Humane society today. Agents of the society arrested Charles Primarel, Mountain View, on a charge of using live rabbits to train the racing dogs. Primarel, denying a charge that he permitted the dogs to chase and kill live rabbits, said that the custom of using dead rabbits in training was widespread.

THEY LIKE HIM

Everything is serene between George Blaeholder, below, star pitcher from Garden Grove, and his employers, the St. Louis Browns. Blaeholder's 1934 contract calls for a raise, and George has intimated he'll sign pronto.

POND IN LINE FOR YALE JOB; KIPKE IN 1935?

BY JACK CUDDY

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—(UP)—The telephone rang. "Hello!" The voice called excitedly. "It was an old Yale grad calling from New Haven. 'I've got it hot this time—straight from the feed box.'"

With a yawn the writer said he must have the wrong department because certainly there was nothing in sports right now that would give off a calory of heat.

"I'm trying to tell you," insisted the ancient Y.C., "that they're going to appoint 'Ducky' Pond head football coach at Yale tomorrow or the next day."

"I'm telling you this is positive," he insisted. "Pond goes in tomorrow or Thursday. This is almost the same as official. From someone on the inside. The whole staff of assistants will be announced too."

He explained the situation as follows: Malcolm Farmer, graduate manager of athletics, will recommend to the board of athletic control the name of Raymond (Ducky) Pond, Yale football hero of the 1923 and 1924 seasons, to succeed last year's head coach, Reggie Root. He also would recommend the assistants.

The assistants will be Benny Osterman, former Michigan star and variety end coach; Jack Blott, Michigan line coach, and Earl ("Greasy") Neal of West Virginia university. The assistants were lined up last week when Farmer and Pond made a trip to Michigan and West Virginia.

This coaching set-up will be an emergency measure, destined to last only for the year 1934, the alumni emphasized. "The reason they're bringing in Osterman and Blott from Michigan is to pave the way for Harry Kipke, Michigan's head coach, to come to Yale next year. Remember that's the way Stanford did—brought out Andy Kerr and Tiny Thornhill the year before 'Pop' Warner went there."

VINES WINS 5-SET TUSSLE FROM BILL

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 30.—(UP)—Stamina and youth overcame age and cunning to give Ellsworth Vines a net victory over Bill Tilden as they brought their transcontinental tour to Los Angeles last night.

The 22-year-old Vines ended a fierce battle early today by engaging a 6-2 victory in the fifth set, ending the evening's play with the scores 6-0, 21-23, 7-5, 3-6, 6-2. The match lasted 31-2 hours.

In a preliminary one-set match, Bruce Barnes, former intercollegiate champion, trounced Vinnie Richards, noted pro, 6-4.

Vines and Tilden resume their exhibition tour tonight in Pasadena, the former's home town. Only a fair-sized crowd greeted them last night. Vines now is leading the "old master," seven matches to four.

Bambino Recovers From Severe Cold

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—(UP)—Babe Ruth, veteran slugger of the New York Yankees, was recovering today from a severe cold. The home run king contracted the cold several days ago while playing golf. A physician was called when he developed a fever.

INTERSECTION TUSSLE BOOKED HERE TONIGHT

Phoenix junior college's rangy basketball team, boasting an impressive seasonal record, invades Andrews gymnasium here tonight for an international court feud with Bill Cook's Santa Ana Dons at 7 o'clock.

George Hoy's Arizona Bears, who have arranged games with seven junior colleges on their barn-storming tour along the California coast, face Santa Ana's next league opponent, Riverside, tomorrow evening, thereby affording Eastern conference fans an opportunity to size up the comparative strength of the Dons and Bengals before they clash at Riverside Saturday.

Phoenix has sent its 10 best candidates to California for contests with Santa Ana, Riverside, Pomona, Thursday, and Glendale, Saturday. The Bears already have engaged El Centro, Brawley and Citrus, losing to Citrus, 42-41, last night.

Since his league game with Riverside is five nights away, Coach Cook will hold back nothing against Phoenix. He plans to pit his regular combination of Ed Bragg and Clair Freininger, forwards; Harold Youel, center; Al Clark and Bob Schwarm, guards, against the Arizonans, later run in his best reserves—Palmer Stoddard, Junior Hurley, Frank Kroener, Byron Stoddard, Jim Lash and Reg Lake.

The Phoenix offense, which has amassed 336 points to the opposition's 234, is built around the center pivot, with Graham Strathy and Louis, respective 6:3 and 6:2 freshmen, alternating at that position. Mark Brown, regular left forward, ranks with the towering Smith as the team's highest scorers. The Bears are adapted to both the man-to-man and shifting-zone types of defense. On offense they break rapidly.

Center Smith was taken ill Sunday night with pneumonia and removed to a hospital in Los Angeles. Physicians report he probably will be confined two weeks.

Teaming with Strathy and Brown in the Arizona line-up will be Al Bell, 6:1, forward, and Lawrence Walker, 5:7 sophomore transfer from Kansas, who plays either forward or guard.

IOWA CONVINCED OF TROY 'GOOD FAITH'

IOWA CITY, Ia., Jan. 30.—(UP)—The University of Iowa's athletic department is convinced of the "good faith" of the University of Southern California in the case of the two freshmen athletes who left Iowa for the Western school two weeks ago.

In a letter to Prof. Hugh Willett, chairman of the Pacific Coast conference, Prof. Clarence M. Updegraff, chairman of the Iowa athletic board, today sought to end a controversy which has raged since "Bud" Froning and Duane Swanson hopped a freight train and headed west.

"Our director of athletics," Updegraff wrote, "E. H. Larr, and our basketball coach, R. F. Williams, are surprised that the current local rumor relative to the departure of Froning and Swanson from here was not verified by your investigation. Your affidavits, however, are such as to convince them of your good faith in the whole matter. In this statement, this athletic board concurs."

The letter was in reply to one from Willett, received late yesterday which demanded an apology from Williams for his alleged charges that Southern California had influenced the two boys, both promising basketball prospects, to leave the University of Iowa. In event no apology was given, Willett's letter asked for specific charges of proselyting.

BANKS 'BEAR DOWN' ON SAC CLUB OWNER

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 30.—(UP)—Lou Moreing, owner of the Sacramento club of the Pacific Coast league, was reported today to be seeking a financial "angel" to save the club from a forced sale to satisfy a bank loan. Baseball men said that the scheduled sale had been postponed to give Moreing an opportunity to raise some cash.

Cubs, Angels Plan Benefit For Preps

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 30.—(UP)—The Chicago Cubs and Los Angeles Angels will meet in an exhibition game at Wrigley field March 26, for the benefit of local high school baseball players, it was announced today. Proceeds will be used to

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

-- News Behind The News --

WASHINGTON
By Paul Mallon

MARTNESS
You cannot best this administration for smart politics. Just when all possible tricks seem to have been tried, along comes Mr. Roosevelt with a new one.

The latest is the unprecedented manner in which he submitted the stock market and communications issues to Congress. Instead of sending a message making specific recommendations for legislation as all Presidents have done, he merely slipped an envelope under the door of several Congressional Committees. The envelope contained recommendations not from him, but from two boards created to study the stock market and communications problems.

He said absolutely nothing about what he wanted or how, when or where he wanted it.

Concerning the communications report, he advised the Congressional Committees to come up and see him at the proper time. That was all.

SPEED
This subtle step is supposed to have been devised by certain wise old heads among Democratic leaders on the Hill. It was well thought out.

They are passing around the so-called inside yarn that the purpose is solely to get Congress out of town as soon as possible. They say the President does not care for action on such questions immediately.

There seems to be an inside to the inside on that idea.

By refraining from specific recommendations the President also refrains from taking a chance on saying his fingers burned about such doubtful ideas.

PLAN
The method seems to be the third phase of his well conceived plan for controlling Congress.

The first phase was his opening message to the session. Instead of submitting the customary legislative program, he offered some ideas about what a great thing it was that they were all parts together.

Then when he really wanted some specific legislation later, he sent up a fast message demanding action on it, and only it, at once.

Witness the money bill and the supplemental relief bills.

The idea has worked brilliantly. If a full legislative program had been submitted at the opening of the session, time would have been offered for formation of the usual opposition blocs. As it is the opposition cannot get started.

CONTROL
By feeding out his recommendations from time to time, he controls even the subjects to be discussed in Congress.

The same day the stock market and communications letters were left under the door, the President sent a message in the customary official channel. He asked for $950,000,000 more for the relief program. He left no doubt about what he wanted done on that question.

AUTHOR
New Yorkers who knew Mr. Roosevelt well at Albany are amazed at his skill in such matters. They point out that he did not handle the legislature, the press and the opposition party with such cleverness as he has exhibited since he came to Washington.

There are two answers to that. One is that Mr. Roosevelt knew much more about the inside of national political machinery when he came to Washington than he knew about the state political machinery even when he left Albany. He was here for eight years during the Wilson regime, observing and learning.

The answer specifically applicable to the Congressional angle is that he has had the wholehearted confidence of three or four very smart veteran legislators.

Vice President Garner, Senator Byrnes and Pat Harrison, Congressman Rayburn, as well as the nominal leaders, have been of valuable assistance.

PUSH
The House leaders have been working close to Presidential program. They have already passed four of the nine regular appropriation bills. Those nine are about the only bills which must be passed before adjournment.

Speaker Rainey has already sent out word that the House will clear up its business shortly and start howling for action from the Senate. It will take three-day recesses and center the attention of the country on the laggardness of the Senate.

With such pressure, the White House figures it will get rid of Congress easily by April 1.

NOTES
It is a tribute to the Army that Administrator Hopkins is looking for army officers to fill CWA posts. The Army men have been notably free from graft suspicions in all their work with Muscle Shoals, rivers and harbors, etc.

However, some one or near the War Department must have leaked to Wall Street on that announcement recommending purchase of 900 more army planes. Aviation manufacturing stocks started going up 24 hours before the announcement came out. Curtis-Wright rose from 47 to 75 and then fell back to 54 in the two-hour market session. Saturday before the announcement was made.

the first time in three years that these banks have had new money for investment. It seems to be another result of the new government expenditures.

A small Northern Virginia newspaper published an editorial last week in which it said that Senator Carter Glass resign and let some one represent Virginia in the Senate who will support the President. Several papers reprinted the editorial. Glass will not be influenced by such an attack, except possibly adversely.

The money policy is certainly a redistribution of wealth almost as great as the method advocated by Huey Long, but less painful. The government takes a profit of 40 cents by devaluing and then spends the profit through the CWA, PWA, etc., which is certainly taking dollars from those who have them and giving dollars to those who have none.

The Roosevelt strategy, clever though it is, is hardly comparable to the golf strategy of a certain Republican Senator. He plays another Republican Senator every day for $1 a hole, and always wins. The reason is that he tells his caddy that he will pay a $5 tip every time his score is under 100. The caddy sees that the score is under a hundred by running ahead and teeing up the ball for every shot.

STABILIZATION
Very unofficially and on the quiet message of a sort of gentleman's agreement with the Bank of England to maintain temporary de facto stabilization of the dollar and the pound in an approximate ratio of 5 to 1.

The purpose is to strengthen the government's hand in its financing program by keeping the dollar fairly steady in foreign exchange. Depreciation to the 50-cent gold level can wait until the problem of floating securities is fully solved.

If you were to ask anyone at the Treasury whether such an agreement existed you would probably get a flat denial—and the answer would be literally true. The Treasury took no part in the negotiations. They were carried on with great secrecy by the New York Federal Reserve Bank. But if you think the Bank acted on its own initiative without orders from the boss you had better guess again.

TERMS
Local bankers tried some of their old-time stunts when they discussed the terms of the new government security issue with representatives of the Treasury. They just can't seem to get out of the habit.

They still have a complex in favor of short-term stuff as they put on long faces and moaned at every suggestion that the government would like to have its forthcoming issues outstanding for even as much as a year. Also they had bright ideas about high interest rates. Of course they wanted to cooperate and all that sort of thing but you see the market was in too precarious a condition to swallow anything stronger than the medicine prescribed by experienced banking physicians.

Then when Federal Reserve Governor Harrison was summoned to Washington for further conferences on the subject they loaded him up with bar stories about what they wouldn't do if the government's ideas failed to coincide with theirs.

So what happened? The Treasury did decide to postpone its plans for some real long-term issues for a while but otherwise stuck to its own ideas. As usual the current offering is certain to be oversubscribed.

FEDERAL RESERVE
Governor Eugene R. Black of the Federal Reserve Board was truthful to the point of pathos when he remarked that the Reserve banks would cooperate fully to make the issue a success. The Federal Reserve continues to do as it's told and no back talk. Wall Street wonders why Washington is so keen to strip the Reserve System of its powers when it is so eager to heed the government's slightest wish. The System's vaunted independence of political pressure has become so much appeasement.

SCARE
The arrest of the German broker Siegfried Bechold in New York for conversion of funds has brought to light a strange practice conducted by German-American security dealers here and in other cities with a large and glib German population.

They have advertised extensively in the German language press and sent out high-pressure salesmen to try to frighten prospective customers with the bogey of American inflation and recommend the purchase of German securities in foreign exchange.

Sales resistance is low because of the argument used in the personal follow-up: "You lost everything you had in the German inflation. This is your last chance to protect yourself. We are doing you a favor by helping you beat the American laws."

TRADE
Negotiations which would cause more Scotch to flow across the Atlantic are stumbling along. The trouble is that the President is determined to have more bacon make the trip in the opposite direction in exchange. The British moan that Roosevelt's pork import compensation is permanent while the liquor quota would only hold good until March, 1934. John Bull just can't see the justice of that.

GUARANTEE
The Czechoslovak government has just taken a step to encourage exporters. Hereafter they will receive a guarantee of one-third the value of the merchandise exported. Germany started this system some years ago in her Russian transactions.

American business men drafting a proposed trade agreement between the United States and Russia are trying to include this feature but want a 60 per cent guarantee.

RADIO
Radio circles hear that the most extensive radio set-up yet devised is being planned for Central India. The idea is to build small stations to serve 600,000 Indian villages. Each village will have a community receiving set and the inhabitants will be called on for contributions to make it self-supporting. Scientific agriculture will be taught in 200 districts.

The real purpose of this development is believed to be political. Russia is upset about it because her useful Middle Asia broadcasting station at Tashkent will probably be drowned out. Copyright, 1934, McClure News-Pers. Syn.

The Public Forum

Communications under this heading must be signed by the name of the writer. These communications express the opinions of the writers of them. The opinions may or may not be the opinions of The Register.

Editor Register:
Frankly, I do not pretend to be overly bright about these matters, but with your kind indulgence, I wish to protest to the gentlemen who are planning to run for political office this year, against insulting what small intelligence I have remaining from the last campaign, which left me pretty well muddled.

Of course, I understand that the political springtime of this election year has arrived. At the risk of becoming offensively poetical, let me say that I have been able to observe the tender shoots of aspiration preparing for their up-thrust into the light of public notice.

In plainer words, job hunters trying to get attention in the cheapest possible manner.

And, unless I am greatly mistaken, which I am not, I have just heard the first robin of the campaign; though it may have been a woodpecker, at that, to judge from the rapping. But, of course, whether robin or woodpecker, it wanted that worm. You can't blame it.

I know that these things must go on. They are part of the usual technique employed when the "outs" start making passes at the "ins."

Perhaps they are not intended to fool anybody, but I have a dark suspicion that such is their purpose. However, it isn't just that. In fact, I don't mind being fooled by clever stuff. That doesn't hurt your pride, especially when you realize that you are backward about these matters.

But I do hotly resent having these political gentlemen actually flaunt my stupidity in my face, by expecting me to take them seriously in some of their maneuvers.

Take, for example, the robin, or woodpecker, maneuver several days ago, when certain peace officers, who fairly dripped cooperation, came before the county supervisors and offered the aid of constables and police departments to the sheriff, in quelling a strike disturbance.

Without doubt, we stupidas were expected to understand that the sheriff was letting things get away from him. We would remember that on election day, of course.

There were only two or three things wrong with the picture, so far as this feeble intellect managed to comprehend. A really smart person may have found many more. But we stupidas only wondered:

1—Why want to quell a disturbance that had already been quelled?

2—If it was sincerely desired to offer cooperation to the sheriff, why not offer it to him personally—and privately—instead of offering it to the supervisors publicly, with the beating of tom-toms.

Of course, it couldn't have been politics. I don't know what it was. I'll have to leave the answer to smarter folk.

3—If I didn't know whether to laugh or get mad. Finally, I decided to get mad. I had been insulted. And I want to give fair warning right here that I'm not going to vote for any of those constables or police chiefs who may covet the sheriff's job, if they don't quit insulting me.

Maybe, in closing, I should insist, for effect, that this is not a defense of Sheriff Jackson. But, as I said before, I'm not overly bright about these matters. Nor do I wish to be any more stupid than the political gentlemen.

Yours respectfully,
O. A. BAER.

GOVERNMENTAL TRENDS SHOWN AT CLUB MEET

Outlining two prevailing government trends today in United States, one towards socialism and the other towards an absolute dictatorship, Attorney Stanley M. Reinhaus last night made the subject of "Legislation" a very interesting one for Santa Ana Business and Professional Women.

It was the semi-monthly meeting of the club in the Doris Kathryn, and the speaker was introduced by Mrs. Marshall Northcross, January program chairman. Asserting that major legislation of the present centered in administration of government affairs with a view of ending the depression, Reinhaus discussed the tremendous power vested in the President, citing his control of the banks, his power to purchase gold, control of employment, authorization of loans, fixing of tariff rates, and bills in view that will yield even more power.

"We now have a capitalist system with socialist tendencies," the speaker declared, asserting, however, that it was absolutely necessary, in view of the crisis in national affairs, and that as matters adjusted themselves in the future he felt certain that President Roosevelt would gradually relinquish such absolute powers.

One of the most important legislative acts in prospect is that for the revaluation of the dollar, he declared. Another is that to build more ships to bring our navy to treaty strength. A full explanation of the majority of these bills, with all that they promise for the future, was given.

Following the program, Mrs. Marie Fowler, club president, led an important discussion of plans for the Southern District board meeting to be held in this city February 10. The district membership chairman and county presidents will meet at 3 o'clock in Elbell clubhouse, and the general business meeting will follow at 4 o'clock. Dinner for members and delegates will be served at 6 o'clock, with a musical program and addresses to follow. "International Relations" will be the general theme of the board meeting.

Three guests were introduced at last night's meeting, Mrs. Major Anderson, Mrs. A. T. McPherson and Miss Ethel McKeeth.

Among business matters brought up by Mrs. Fowler was the action taken by the National Federation in support of the national garment label campaign launched under the coat and suit code, and endorsed by Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt in public life. This is to overcome sweatshop conditions among garment workers.

THEATER GUILD TO CAST THREE PLAYS

FULLERTON, Jan. 30.—Members of the Little Theater guild of Orange county last night reviewed several plays, and are arranging to cast three of them at the regular meeting Thursday at Isaak Walton cabin here.

One play that was partly cast was a one-act farce, to be directed by Talbot Bielefeldt, known as "Love Pirate," and those chosen so far are Bielefeldt, Darrel McGovern, Jimmy Dean, McCabe, Lucille Vogel and Doris Massey.

A suggestion was made that "Everyman" be cast and that also is to be considered Thursday at the meeting at Isaak Walton cabin.

Name Similarity Causes Confusion

Similarity in names has led friends of Mrs. Hazel Rehm, 821 Cypress avenue, to confuse her with a Mrs. Hazel Roan of California City in Northern California, who was arrested over the week end in Brea for drunken driving. It was learned today from her husband, Franklin Rehm.

Although both women are 39 years of age and answer the same general description, the Santa Ana woman has a different spelling of her last name.

SCHOOL BOARD TALKS PLAN FOR JUNIOR COLLEGE

The Santa Ana board of education last night ordered appointment of a committee to work with Business Manager George Newcom in preparing a CWA project to secure labor and material for use in preparing temporary quarters for the junior college.

Last week Assistant District Attorney W. F. Menton was asked to prepare a report for the board outlining the method of forming a Union Junior College district. Members of the board expressed themselves as favoring such a plan for the betterment of the college.

Menton reported last night that there is no provision for unionization but that a new district could be formed through disincorporation of the present district and starting over with the reorganization of a district embracing the various high school districts. This plan was advised against as through disincorporation the college would suffer material loss.

Menton advised that the best way to form such a district was through annexation.

He said that to form the district through annexation all that would be necessary would be for a majority of the heads of families or qualified electors in a high school district to present a petition for annexation to the county superintendent of schools who in turn present it to the board of supervisors. This must be accompanied by an agreement to the plan from the college district.

When the supervisors make the order of annexation it is necessary for the high school district to elect a decision whether or not the district shall accept its pro-rata share of the college district's bonded debt. If this proposal is approved annexation is completed but no until the high school district agrees to accept its share of the district debt.

Crowded conditions at the high school at present make it necessary to move the college at least while rehabilitation work is being done at the high school, according to board members. Under the temporary plan it is probable that the present school board administration building, the old Willard school and the two buildings on Church street will be repaired and used as a college.

GOLD SUBJECT OF ROTARY ADDRESS

ANAHEIM, Jan. 30.—Gold as a medium of exchange has become obsolete and the substitutes of gold such as bank checks, drafts and credits have taken the place of gold until it is no longer necessary to business. Dr. Graham A. Laing, professor of economics at the California School of Technology and an acknowledged authority on this subject, told members and guests of the Rotary club yesterday noon when he discussed the gold standard. The luncheon was held at the Elks' clubhouse.

He dissected the gold standard and showed why it has become obsolete and that it no longer matters whether the nation remained on that basis. He predicted that in the future the money system might resolve itself into a system of bookkeeping.

The speaker was introduced by Louis Danz, program chairman for the occasion.

PROPAGANDA OF FIFTEERS' COUNCIL WETS CITED AT Y. W. C. A. MEET

PLACENTIA, Jan. 30.—Warning against propaganda of the liquor interests, Mrs. John Urquhart, of Los Angeles, state and national representative of the Y. W. C. A., was the principal speaker at the annual meeting of the Northern Orange County Y. W. C. A. at the Round Table clubhouse last night.

She said the Y. W. C. A. stands behind the churches on the liquor issue and that article 13 of the social ideal of churches asks for protection of society from intoxicants and habit forming drugs.

The speaker was critical of a book, "Toward Liquor Control," which she said she thought had had more to do with repeal than any other one force.

"Unless it was Parley," she said, "Farley had back of him the administration; I do not have to follow the administration when it is wrong; and I admire President Roosevelt in almost all else he has done." She criticized John D. Rockefeller and his attitude on repeal.

She continued her talk by drawing attention to the guiding of people into happiness, peace and understanding of life, and said the question on how to attain those three ideals is usually answered by "return of prosperity."

This prosperity should be reached, however, through character building, she said, and quoted that happiness, peace and understanding are gained through "seeking ye first the kingdom of God, and all these things shall be added unto you."

Miss Paolina Nanno presided. A dinner was served by members of Placentia Round Table club. Mrs. S. W. Smith and Mrs. A. C. Terrell, of Fullerton; Mrs. H. S. Horn, of Buena Park; Mrs. T. P. Wallace, of Brea, were elected members at large of the council.

Part of the program included an interesting skit presented by Placentia Girl Reserves on "The Last Night at Oseola."

Miss Olive Gale of Yorba Linda sang "I Pass By Your Window." Mrs. B. M. Solover accompanied at the piano. Miss Nanno presented the address of welcome, and introduced the chairman of the district councils who in turn introduced the members of the council attending, and gave reports from their districts. The chairman introduced Mrs. V. T. Stephens, Buena Park; Mrs. A. C. Terrell, Fullerton; Mrs. H. O. Simmonds, La Habra; whose place was taken by Mrs. Schfield, Mrs. Louis Jacobson, of Placentia, who also introduced the leader of the Girl Reserves, Mrs. V. L. Adams, and Mrs. J. H. Wylie, of Yorba Linda. Miss Nanno gave the report from Fullerton, where she is chairman of the board.

Also were introduced Dr. and Mrs. Frank Downing, Dr. and Mrs. William Wickert, Tomika Dobashi and several other special guests. The Rev. J. D. Brigham opened the session with asking grace and closed with the benediction.

G. A. R. CHIEF BACK IN NEW YORK TODAY

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—(UP)—Col. Russell C. Martin of Los Angeles, commander-in-chief of the G. A. R., was back in New York for a visit today after an absence of nearly 70 years.

The 85-year-old veteran, who fought under Generals Custer and Sheridan, is on his way to Rochester, where he will participate in a preliminary meeting of the national board of the G. A. R., to arrange for its 69th encampment there in August.

Colonel Martin expressed amazement at the "tremendous build" of the city. "They are beyond belief," he said. "They are beyond the Civil war."

GANGSTERS' TRIAL BROUGHT TO HALT

CHICAGO, Jan. 30.—(UP)—Prosecution of Roger Touhy and three other gangsters on death penalty kidnapping charges was brought practically to a standstill today by disappearance of a state's witness.

Although Wilbert Crowley, first assistant state's attorney, has introduced identifications of three of the four defendants as members of a band of a dozen abductors which held John (Jake the Barber) Factor prisoner until $7000 ransom was paid, attempts to link the fourth defendant with the kidnapping were blocked temporarily.

The missing witness was James Wagner, 266 Plaines, Ill., tavern-keeper.

The fourth defendant, Eddie McFadden, has not yet been directly linked with the kidnapping.

Guthrie, program chairman of the organization. The meeting will be held in the high school cafeteria and will start at 7:30 p. m.

The meeting, Guthrie said, is for the purpose of discussing "The Reconstruction Program." Miss Hamon is resigning to accept a similar post in the San Diego Teachers' college, and will report to her new school February 12.

APPEAL NOTICE IS FILED IN FEE CASE

Major Frank E. sound guilty for a jury last week in police court for violation of the city license ordinance, perfected his notice of appeal to the superior court and filed statement on appeal with the court yesterday afternoon.

In his appeal Ely listed 20 errors on the part of Judge A. W. Swayze in place of Judge J. G. Mitchell of Santa Ana, and 18 errors on the part of Prosecuting Attorney Clyde Downing.

Ely contended at the trial that he did not practice law in Santa Ana after December, 1932, could not be compelled to pay a city license of $3 per quarter for the last two quarters of 1933, and had paid a state license fee, which eliminated the necessity of a payment here.

Downing contended that Ely had not served notice that he was not practicing, held himself out as an attorney and had to pay the license here.

A motion for new trial and arrestment of judgment was denied by Swayze, who fined Ely $200.

The meeting was postponed from tonight, the regular meeting time, because nearly community in the county is participating in celebrations of the President's Birthday party.

SIX PHASES IN LIFE OF THE PRESIDENT

HAPPY BOYHOOD—A serious lad, appeared Franklin Delano Roosevelt at 12, but there's a twinkle in his eye as he poses, all dressed up in his party clothes in the style of 1894.

NEARING MANHOOD—This garb might look odd today, but it was the mode for recreation when Franklin D. Roosevelt wore it at the family summer home in Campobello, in 1899.

POWER IN NAVY—Mr. Roosevelt became assistant secretary of the U. S. navy in 1913, serving through the World War, showing great executive ability and a capacity for hard work.

TEMPORARY SETBACK—The Democratic presidential ticket of Cox and Roosevelt was beaten badly in the 1920 election, when Warren G. Harding and Calvin Coolidge won.

NEW YORK'S GOVERNOR—Rescuing from infantile paralysis, Mr. Roosevelt again entered public life. Elected governor of New York in 1928, he was re-elected in 1930.

PRESIDENT OF THE U. S.—Carrying the Democratic party's standard in 1932, Mr. Roosevelt was elected president of the United States—and today leads the nation to recovery.

WILL ASK SUPERVISORS FOR ACTION ON FLOOD CONTROL PROJECT ON ELLIOTT PLAN

A plan for flood control projects is to be requested of the board of supervisors by Yorba Linda Chamber of Commerce according to a resolution passed at a regular dinner meeting last night at Yorba Linda, where LeRoy Lyon, supervisor of the third district, was guest speaker.

J. E. Lewis, superintendent of the Yorba Linda Water company, presented the resolution, which included a request that the Elliott plan of flood control only be reviewed, and presented with a request for CWA funds for work to the supervisors, asking them to make every effort to get the project through.

Lyon told of the great need of such work, and also of the fact that the fires of the past few years had rendered the county subject to floods in burning off the water breaks, and said that Orange county has not had in recent times more than a seven-inch rain at a single storm, and recalled to his audience that a 13-inch rain such as was recorded with great damage resulting in North Los Angeles county might cause about as much damage if it fell in Orange county.

H. A. Casparis presided. He requested the supervisors care for a $120 insurance policy on the community fire engine. Lyon said he did not know how such an amount could be handled through the supervisors, but would investigate.

Assistance on a police project also was discussed, and Lyon said he thought the county-wide plan would be effective by March, and at the latest April, with the radio hook-up.

Discussion also was presented on the prospect of getting an auditorium for the school building. A. J. Olson reported that an auditorium seating 550 would cost more than $15,000, and that the government would pay about half. No action was taken.

George Bates said the 13,000-foot sidewalk project was turned down because of the need of fixing culverts over which the walks would have to go. He said also the time is getting late to consider CWA funds, which may not be available after February 15.

Junior Police To Meet Tomorrow

Howard C. Timmons, Orange County Automobile club executive, will show pictures taken during his hunting trip to Alaska as the feature of a meeting tomorrow night of the Santa Ana Junior Police to be held at 7 o'clock in the Boy Scout room of the old board of education building on Church street at Sycamore.

Chief Harold McCauston explained that the meeting had been postponed two weeks because of final examinations. Entertainment for the meeting will be provided by the junior high school divisions.

RANCHERS GET $54,000 CASH ON LAND LOANS

An increasing amount of cash flowed into the pockets of Orange county agriculturists during the past week as money paid out on approved Federal Land Bank and Land commissioner loans increased. It was announced today by C. A. Palmer, secretary of the Orange County National Farm Loan association.

During the past week a total of $54,000 was paid out to Orange county farmers in seven loans which came out of escrow. The loans brought the total cash paid out in Orange county up to $108,500, previous loans having amounted to $54,500.

At the same time, Palmer announced that five additional loans have been approved by bank officials amounting to $49,900. This brings the total on approved loans up to $486,000, figures revealed.

Officials of the Orange County National Farm Loan association, the agency through which the loans are obtained, are located at 614 1/2 North Main street.

TRUCK CROPS BRING $206,295 TO COUNTY

While Orange county's outstanding source of wealth is its citrus crop, other agricultural products cannot be ignored as a source of income according to a recent report from the United States Department of Commerce. This report is based on the 1930 crop census and reveals that five of the county's minor crops returned, that year, a total of $206,295 to the growers.

According to the report Orange county in 1930 had a total of 645 acres planted to snap or string beans. This crop returned to the growers a total of $39,134.

During the same year there was a total of 491 acres planted to sweet corn which returned to the growers $38,565 in cash. Asparagus acreage was 118 acres with a cash return amounting to $27,105. One hundred and seventeen acres of cucumbers returned $34,333 to the growers and 48 acres of celery showed a cash value of $17,055.

ANAHEIM COOPERATIVE CITRUS HOUSE REPORTS RETURNS OF $437,177 DURING PAST YEAR

The year just closed brought fruit receipts of $437,177.13 to the Anaheim Co-operative Orange association, members of that organization were told today by H. W. Pierce, secretary-manager of this organization. The review of affairs for the year was given at the annual meeting, at noon, in the White Temple Methodist Episcopal church, with J. A. Baker, president, the chairman. More than 300 growers and guests were present.

Several talks on conditions generally in the citrus markets were made by C. P. Earley, general manager of the Mutual Orange Distributors; J. A. Steward, sales manager; A. L. Chandler, manager of the fertilizer department; H. L. Thomson, growers' service department, and by R. L. Knox, general manager of the Brokers company.

Reduced packing returns for the year, with heavy refunds, and a season marked with less withdrawals from the association are also features of the report by Pierce.

The report in detail shows the effects of a generally difficult season caused by upset national economic conditions, augmented locally by the extraordinary quantity of fruit which it was reported was badly wind-scoured and crystallized.

"Withdrawals in the past season," the report states, "have been less than in any year under the present management; in fact, we have a small increase in average over the same date last year.

"With a return reduced at the beginning of the season by the board of directors, there have been some reductions in packing costs as compared with the packed box volume handled for the season, and we are refunding to our growers at the rate of 18 cents a box."

Busy Scenes Indicate Interest Shown in Birthday Party

Humming with activity and bustling with excitement, Ebell clubhouse and Masonic temple today were being adorned and brightened in readiness for the major part they will play tonight in the President's Birthday Party. While at the three theaters of the city—Broadway, West Coast and Walker's State—the same air of excitement was apparent, as decorations were placed for the gala event.

Santa Ana has thrown herself heart and soul into the plans for this gigantic birthday party in which a whole nation will pay tribute to its chief executive and assist in a plan dear to his heart, the alleviation of pain, suffering and invalidation of thousands of the nation's children.

Women of the city, with Mrs. Loyal E. King as chairman, have co-operated splendidly with B. Z. McKinney, general chairman, and his workers. To the women have been delegated many of the details of decorations, program plans, etc.

Large pictures of President Roosevelt—"Franklin the Lion Hearted"—will be placed advantageously in decorative effects, with the blood stirring folds of red, white and blue to suggest the patriotic nature of the event. Mrs. C. V. Davis, named as chairman of the general women's committee in charge of the card party to be held in Ebell clubhouse, delegated many of her responsibilities to Mrs. Samuel Nau, and the latter has promised a brilliant setting for the card players.

Mrs. Roy Shaffer and Mrs. Aldrie Worswick, working together with their committee in planning prizes for successful card players, have emphasized the birthday theme. For they are providing a candied birthday cake to reward holder of high score at each table.

At Masonic temple, where dancing will prevail in the main hall, the same decorative scheme will be used, with the President's portrait given prominence. Mrs. Merrill W. Hollingsworth and her committee will provide fruit punch for thirty dancers. The Delano-Cartwright orchestra will provide the dance program.

Dancing card games will both begin at 8 o'clock, and in both cases arrangements have been made to enable the guests to hear the President's address at 8:20 o'clock. Emphasis has been placed on the fact that all parties are strictly informal.

Magnolia Circle

Thirty-six members of Magnolia Circle of Royal Neighbors met for a happy day Thursday in the home of Mrs. Stella Miller. Mrs. J. E. Gish of Missouri was a guest.

Officers for the coming year were elected, including, president, Mrs. Etta D. Sweet; vice president, Mrs. Charles Tibbets; secretary, Mrs. C. E. Hammett; treasurer, Mrs. W. C. Drake.

The February meeting will be in the home of Mrs. E. U. Farmer, 1221 South Barton street.

Winter Motif Applied To Gift Shower in Clever Fashion

Despite the ample promise of spring offered by the balmy days of the past week, King Winter held sway in the A. C. Wiebe home, 819 East Fifth street, reigning over a delightful party planned by Mrs. Wiebe, Mrs. H. I. Pearson and Mrs. C. M. Pearson, to compliment Mrs. E. F. Peters, the former Miss Helen Blanchard, a Thanksgiving bride.

Realistic snow transformed the home into a picturesque scene with skis and similar symbols of winter sports, lending atmosphere. An entertaining guessing game was introduced and to Mrs. Sadie Joiner, scoring high, was awarded a prize. Mrs. Emma Tenney Wilson played a group of piano numbers, closing with the spirited rhythms of "Jingle Bells."

As the last strains died away, the guests heard the actual jingle of sleighbells. Mrs. Peters, the honor guest, was greeted by a group of girls in winter garb, drawing a sled with a box of interesting packages. These packages were numbered, and guests were asked to guess the contents of each before Mrs. Peters opened and claimed the lovely and useful gifts enclosed. Mrs. Edna Machander guessed the largest number of gifts correctly, and was rewarded with a prize.

Completing their hospitality the three hostesses served refreshment of salad, cheese biscuits, coffee and candies to their guests, who included in addition to the recent bride so happily complimented, Mrs. Peters, Mesdames Sadie Joiner, Marie Klingenberg, Oveda Farwell, O. S. Catland, Effie Miller, Helena Boese, George Jenkins, Edna Machander, W. A. Platt, Lorraine Bagwell, R. L. Bianchi, Leola Dietrich, Ada S. Peters, David Meyer, Mary Myers, Charles Havens, A. T. Davis, W. H. McMurphy, John J. Harrison, L. R. Whitney, E. Steffenson and the Misses Jean Bishop, Eunice and Vivian Blanchard.

College Club Arranges For Springtime Events

Orange County Mills college club made plans for two springtime affairs during an afternoon session Saturday when Mrs. Leland Finley and Mrs. Frank Andrews Jr. joined as hostesses in the latter's home, 1119 North Olive street.

It was decided to have a covered-dish dinner on the evening of March 21 in the home of Mrs. M. E. Tower, La Habra. General plans were made for a benefit bridge tea to be held in the spring, with a definite date to be named later. Mrs. Edward Hall, president, conducted business affairs.

Remaining hours were given over to bridge in which Mrs. Arvid Norton and Miss Ann Tarver scored first and second high. Mrs. Finley and Mrs. Andrews served refreshments as small tables centered with dainty bouquets.

Those present were Mrs. Rolo Hays Jr., a special guest, and members including Mrs. Mervin Bryte, Mrs. Edward Hall, Miss Ann Tarver, of Santa Ana; Mrs. M. E. Tower, La Habra; Mrs. A. A. Arnold, Fullerton; Miss Nancy Lee, Carmichael; and Miss Leona Hilgenfeldt, Anaheim; Mrs. Kellar Watson Jr., Orange; Mrs. Ray Roberts, Brea; Mrs. Arvid Norton, Balboa Beach, and the hostesses, Mrs. Finley and Mrs. Andrews.

EAT AND GROW SLIM

Luncheon

Fruit Salad:
1-2 orange, sliced
1-2 canned peach
1 slice pineapple
Lettuce heart
2 Tbsp. mineral oil mayonnaise
3 saltines, unbuttered
Tea: clear, or with lemon and saccharine.

Calory total, 225.
This easy luncheon can be used for any of the family home for lunch.

Look a bit too stringy, so add a diced apple and use regulation mayonnaise. The saltines will do if you serve plenty of them. Grate cheese and toast it on some of these. These two things with a choice of beverages will satisfy all but the man doing hard manual work... and it's not likely he would be home for lunch anyway.

There is an old rhyme about the pig who found himself asleep in the gutter with a "drunk." The pig got up and walked away, considering himself the better man of the two.

There is a respectable individual from whom the pig would walk away just as quickly if he were to take the place of the drunk: this person is the individual with an intimate appetite and a will too weak to get his exercise by shaking his head, saying, "NO." The rich starchy foods this type revels in, set up in the body a nice little "still," which produces enough alcohol to keep him in a mellow, lippy state, piling onto his body fat and more fat, until he becomes an eyesore to all who know, and should love him. Women, as well as men, are guilty of this kind of intemperance.

TODAY'S RECIPE

Shrimponi

11-2 cups shrimp, diced and cleaned

1 1-2 cups cooked macaroni

1 Tbsp. chopped parsley

1 chopped green pepper

1 1-2 cupful of medium white sauce

1-2 cup dry bread crumbs

2 Tbsp. butter

Salt and pepper to taste.

—Contributed recipe.

Two cans of shrimp will be about right, but three would be better. Clean the shrimp, remove the little black vein you'll see running along the shrimp's back... this is his internal economy, y' know. Have the macaroni cooked, sauce made, and other ingredients ready. Butter a five shallow casserole, combine shrimp and macaroni, mixed with cream sauce, parsley, green pepper and seasonings. Place in casserole, mix crumbs with melted butter, spread over top and bake in a slow oven 25 minutes.

This good dish is the main part of the meal. Add a crisp salad and a fruit dessert. French bread made piping hot in the oven, and there's your meal. Use this dish for the day you go down town to spend an afternoon... all the makings can be prepared in the morning, and while the dish is baking the table can be set, salad made, and the meal ready on the dot.

The dish will serve five, I'd say, and the calories total 420 per portion.

Wednesday: Nut and Raisin Pudding, a sum'shuns dessert for you.

ANN MEREDITH.

Golden Wedding Couple Recalls Historic Site Of Their Nuptials

Wedded a half century ago on land consecrated by the blood of Civil War heroes of both north and south, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Mullis on Saturday celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of their wedding date of January 27, 1884, with an informal reception throughout the afternoon in their home, 842 Riverine avenue.

So many lovely baskets of flowers were sent by interested friends, that they formed ample decoration for the home where Mr. and Mrs. Mullis were assisted in entertaining guests by their children and grandchildren.

Mrs. M. E. Ward and Mrs. Anna Peterson presided at the silver tea service gracing the lace-spread dining table, and Mrs. Leelle Steffenson, Mrs. Clyde Cave, Miss Effie Douglas and Mrs. Anna Westlake aided in serving the delicious little cakes accompanying the tea. Members of the class of First Baptist church, to which Mrs. William Latham, daughter of the honored couple, belongs, had expressed their interest in the anniversary by baking the cookies.

Mrs. Mullis is a member of the Women's Bible class of the church, and Mrs. W. A. Atkinson, class teacher, was present to lend assistance in receiving guests.

Members of the family circle present in addition to Mr. and Mrs. Latham, their daughters and sons, Billie Ruth, Helen and Jack of the home, were Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Mullis and their daughter Cathryn of Delevan, who were accompanied by their sister, Mrs. L. G. Sutton, also of Delevan, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Standifer and their daughter and son, Fannie Ruth and Joe Jr. of this city.

When George W. Mullis and Miss Nancy Richardson were married on that January day fifty years ago, the ceremony took place in the home of the bridegroom's mother on the Chickamauga battlefield in Georgia. Left widowed early in her life, the senior Mrs. Mullis and her little children had been forced to leave their home when the battle of Chickamauga raged, and when they returned at the close of the war, they found it had been used as a hospital. They continued to live in it for many years until the battle ground was purchased by the government and dedicated as a national memorial park.

Mr. and Mrs. Mullis then made their home in Chattanooga, Tenn., until 1920 when they came to Santa Ana to live.

Players' Barn Program Scheduled for Thursday

When Santa Ana Community Players and guests assemble Thursday evening at 8 o'clock for their monthly program at The Barn, Mabury street, they are to form an audience for presentations of marked variety worked out by Harriet Owens Enderle and her committee.

Mrs. Northrup Ellis, Barn chairman, today announced that the program will include a review of John Massfield's newest poetic drama, "End and Beginnings" to be given by Mrs. Enderle. There will be musical interludes during which Miss Emmaline Richards will play violin solos and Sally Coe Mueller will give vocal solos. A one-act play is to be presented.

This Thursday night has been named as the probable time when announcement will be made of the three winning entrants in the current play writing contest.

The usual social time will take place Thursday night, with each person attending asked to contribute one cup to The Barn's milkshaking store of supplies for use in serving the event.

On this month's program committee with Mrs. Enderle are Miss Katherine Barr, John Colwell and Arthur Collins.

Gay Afternoon Party Celebrates First Birthdays

Yesterday's spring-like weather was all that Mrs. John J. Vernon needed to perfect her plans for a merry party in celebration of the first birthday anniversary of her daughter, Mary Vernon. Their home, 2020 Santiago street, was setting for the event.

During the afternoon pictures were taken of the little party guests, ranging in ages from 9 months to two or three years. During the refreshment hour mothers and the children were seated at small tables appointed in pink. Served with ice cream were two angel food cakes frosted in pink, each topped with a small candle. Sweet peas and stocks artistically arranged were in tints of orchid. The honoree received many pretty gifts.

Children sharing in the affair with little Mary Vernon and her sister, Betty Louise Vernon, were Harry Monroe Hemmen, Corinne Turner, David Allen Hayes, Betty Jo McIlvain, Stanley Rohrs. Others present, with Mrs. Vernon were Mesdames W. J. Hemmen, Olin P. Turner, C. E. Hayes, Howard K. McIlvain, Alvin Rohrs and R. E. Couch.

Three Little Pigs Are Seen in Decorations For Buffet Supper

Those famous characters of motion picture history, "Three Little Pigs," added another experience to their adventurous career when they served Sunday night, to add charm to a buffet supper complementing a prospective bride, The Misses Nan and Lolita Mead, entertaining in their home, 2119 North Main street, in honor of Miss Marian Stanley and her fiancé, Clark Batchelder of Beverly Hills, employed the famous piglets to advantage in unusually clever manner.

It was quite a formal party, but a delightful touch of informality was loaned by the prevailing decorative theme. Three Little Pigs gamboled gaily among their small tables centering the buffet table, apparently undismayed by the lurking Big Bad Wolf. Each small table had its round little pig group, and even place cards bore their pictures.

When bridge was introduced at the conclusion of the pleasant supper hour, the motif was apparent in accessories to the game, and when prizes were awarded at the close of play, Mrs. Thomas Griffith was delighted to receive a "Three Little Pigs" book as consolation for low score. Prizes for high scores in the contest were secured by Mrs. Vincent Cral and Ray Hiniker. At the same time Miss Stanley, the complimented bride, was presented with a handsome gift of the gift of her hostesses.

Sharing this enjoyable evening with the Misses Nan and Lolita Mead, Miss Stanley and Mr. Batchelder, were Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Griffith, Mr. and Mrs. Urban J. CITRUS MANAGER OPTIMISTIC OVER PROSPECTS FOR SEASON; RECEIPTS AGGREGATE $113,700

OLIVE, Jan. 30.—Optimism for the coming year in the citrus business is expressed in the annual report of the Olive Hillside Groves, as given here today by F. B. Maxwell, secretary-manager. Among the financial details was that the total receipts in 1933 were $113,700. Rebate was at the rate of 20 cents a box. Retain had been set by the board of directors at the beginning of the season at five cents lower than for 1932.

"The bottom has been reached not only in this business but generally, from present prospects," was the tenor of Maxwell's observations. "Increased purchasing power in the United States, a much better feeling in the mind of the average man, and the increasing of the general belief that the corner has just ahead will be reflected in the markets."

"From the angle of this part of Orange county, we have a much better prospect this year than at the same time in 1932. Then we had just suffered from disastrous winds; we had the problem of a heavy crop of very poor grade stuff. Now, we have a lighter crop and the grades are above average."

"There will be a bigger packout. I believe. More fruit will be packed. And it is the packed fruit upon which, of course, we must put our dependence for returns. If it could be possible honestly to eliminate the low grade production from competition with the packed fruit, our problems would be over in the citrus industry."

"This detail of elimination is the most important thing now before the orange grower." The annual meeting was at 1:30 o'clock in the packing house with W. A. Greenleaf, president, in charge. Visitors from the Mutual Orange Distributors who made talks on various phases of the markets were C. P. Earley, general manager; J. A. Steward, sales manager; E. J. Strickell, manager of the supply department, and H. L. Thomson, growers' service department.

Endorsement of the organization was refused the plan. The city proposes to charge each household 50 cents a month to pay for the sewer. The plan does not provide for any payment on vacant property or by oil companies. Under the proposed plan a loan and grant would be secured from the government.

WORK ON HIGH SCHOOL STARTS IN TWO WEEKS

GARDEN GROVE, Jan. 30.—The architect's plan for rebuilding of the main building of the local high school have been officially accepted by the state and it is expected that work will be commenced within the next two weeks.

The upper story of the building has been completely removed and the outer walls down to the foundation will be torn down. In another week, inspectors found the building structurally inadequate and the report showed that the building must be entirely reconstructed as a two-story structure or partially rebuilt as a one-story building.

The plan accepted by the state was submitted by Frederick H. Eley, architect and calls for remodeling of the lower floor as a frame and stucco structure. By taking out of the space formerly occupied by the cafeteria, cloakrooms and stair walls, the home economics, commercial departments and library will be on the lower floor along with the classrooms and offices. All of the music work will be taken care of where part of it has been in the past. Such an arrangement will provide for all departments and will give the same number of classrooms as before.

To take the place of the cafeteria, a kitchen and small dining room are at the present time being built in connection with the gymnasium. The gymnasium floor can be used for large gatherings. The reconstruction program will cost approximately $15,000. The expense of demolition of the structure was taken care of by the Civil Works administration.

Married Flirts

by MABEL McELLIOTT © 1933 NEA Service, Inc.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Gypsy Morell and Tom Weaver are married on the same day as the flitting and flitting while Gypsy keeps her job teaching in a settlement school.

Gypsy has to struggle to keep expenses within Tom's income. The other problem is Tom's salary. He is a wealthy Marko Broughton who once asked Gypsy to marry him and whom they met at the Blisses' home.

When the doctor tells Gypsy she is to have a baby she gives up her job. Summer comes on and is intensely hot. Gypsy and Tom move to a cottage on Long Island owned by a friend.

The baby is born in late September and the Weavers return to their apartment. Gypsy finds housework with the baby to care for, exhausting. They spend the Christmas holidays with Gypsy's parents in New Jersey. New Year's night Tom and Gypsy are summoned home from a party by news that the baby is ill. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XXIII

It was a nightmare—a hideous, black, absorbing nightmare. The rush home through the silent streets, slippery now, fast going under the moon; the first sight of the Morell house's coupe parked at the driveway. Gypsy scarcely waited for Tom to put on the brakes. She was out of the door, halfway up the stairs by the time he had fairly stopped the car.

"David...mother. How is he?"

The big guest room, with its rose-garlanded paper, its peeling creamy woodwork, was one blaze of light. Gypsy saw only the tiny figure in the bassinette with Doctor Berman bending over it. There was a peculiar smell in the room. Clytie hovered near with a kettle. Someone had made a sort of tent with sheets over the big, wide flat bed with the pineapple posts.

The doctor, frightened at Gypsy's entrance, "Nothing but a little croup," he said easily. "Frightening at first, of course. Your mother had quite a turn..."

Mrs. Morell began volubly to explain. Her children, she said, had never had croup. She was terrified when she heard young David's heavy breathing—when he began to choke.

"But he was perfectly well—he was fine when I left him." Gypsy kept saying in her bewilderment. Some one brought her a chair; her knees were trembling with her reaction. The baby slept quietly now, one crumpled roseleaf had thrown above his head. Lights were turned down and the watchers in the room moved softly, speaking in whispers.

Tom told Gypsy to go to bed; he'd watch David himself. But she was stubborn. She wouldn't sleep, she told him. What was the use? She refused even to take off her frock but sat, wrapped in her woolly robe, her eyes on the crib. She had been dancing, laughing, an hour ago. She had felt like a girl, carefree, minus responsibilities. Now she wondered at the other light-hearted self. How dreadful, how incalculable life was, always striking at you in the dark. Why, David might have died, fighting for his breath, if Mums hadn't heard him. She tried at the thought.

She must, at last, have dozed off because when she opened her eyes again the room was very chilly and Tom, straight and tall in his dressing gown, stood beside her.

"Darling, you'll make yourself ill. Lie down in the other bed in Bea's room and I'll watch here. He'll be all right," the doctor said there were even chances he'd not be disturbed again tonight."

She was stiff cold, aching in every limb. It was too bad to be cared for and comforted. The sheets between which she crept were deliciously warm. She was asleep in five minutes.

David was happy, rosy, untouched the next morning. The brief and frightening attack of croup vanished without leaving a trace—upon the baby, at least. But it had quite a lasting effect on his young mother. She discovered that the love she felt for him was tinged with fear—fear she might lose him, that something might strike out of the dark, at his smallness and helplessness.

Yes, motherhood had changed her more than a little. It had sobered and sweetened her all at once, more womanly, more gentle, more thoughtful while the experience of being a father, she considered gravely, had altered Tom not at all. When they were together, in their own little home, and Gypsy's glowing face and bright eyes were turned up to him, Tom forgot everything except that she was his infinitely dear and adorable child.

When he unlocked his own door at night, it was Gypsy he wanted to see, first of all. The sound of her light laughter was the sweetest music he knew and he was still filled with wonderment at the thought that she had chosen him out of all the world. The baby came second; Gypsy was first always.

While this did not make any real difference between them, Tom was conscious that under Gypsy's love for him ran always, without change or cessation, her passionate concern for the boy. David completed the circle...he and Gypsy and David. Well, that was as it should be, he knew that. And yet...and yet...Gypsy had been more completely his before David's coming.

Perhaps it was natural, as the months went on, that he came to spend a little more of his time at the office. For one thing, there were the new demands that David's needs placed on the Weaver's slender income. And for another, Gypsy was wrapped up in the baby's welfare. She did not feel free to go about as she had before. She was often actually too tired to go to the movies in the evening. She even urged Tom to go by himself or with the Matsons, another young couple who lived on the same floor.

At first Tom protested. No, he'd rather stay at home. He'd much rather be with her. But Gypsy was sometimes too weary to talk. She would make an excuse to creep off to bed early. Small wonder that Tom dropped into the habit of going out without her.

Sometimes she was frightened at her own weariness and dullness and her absorption in the baby. Tom would tire of her, she would tell herself wildly, glancing at her image in the mirror. She had nothing to talk about these days. The young mothers she met in the park were deep in the mysteries of formulas and pureed carrots and orange juice. How could she, after an afternoon of this conversation, be bright and amusing for her husband? And wasn't David worth any self-sacrifice?

One evening in March they went to dine with Tom's boss, a rubicund gentleman who owned a charming house in Seaside. It was all very pleasant—food, host and guests. But Gypsy felt quite out of it. Her frock was unfashionable and her small talk rusty. She hadn't been to any of the new plays. She didn't do the night clubs. Her hostess was smooth, manicured, beautifully dressed and jeweled. Gypsy considered, with humorous despair, asking them to eat her dinner alone, before this.

What was the matter with her? The chop and the baked potato and the spinach all tasted like dust and ashes to her. She picked up a magazine and tried to read but the type all swam together. The stories were trite and uninteresting. What was she doing, in this strange little apartment, high above the uncaring city, alone? She needed laughter and good talk and the kind faces of friends.

She slipped the dishes in the sink, resolving to wash them later. Slipping quietly past the bedroom in which David slept, she washed and powdered and donned her black frock. If she had to be alone, at least she could make herself fresh and presentable. Nothing would happen...nothing ever happened to her any more. Her life was at a standstill.

The doorbell rang resoundingly, as if in answer to this thought. Flushing to answer it, she cried in amazement. "Why, Hunt! Where on earth did you drop from?"

"Yes, darling!"

But her voice dwindled; the ring of pleased expectancy died out of it. He had to work? Oh, that was too bad. She had been mentally freshening up her best black frock, doing her hair.

Tom was sorry, he said. There was a big new account in the office. He hated leaving her alone but honestly he had to work on this. She was a good sport. It was all right, then?

Gypsy put the telephone down with a sensation of disappointment and defeat. The long evening stretched out before her with a lonely and solitary dinner to boot. Well, it was too bad, but it couldn't be helped.

She got David ready for the night, a lovely, laughing scrap of baby, hood in his ribbed nightgown. But after he had been tucked away in his crib, the light turned out and the windows opened, a feeling of deep loneliness swept over her. She stood at the kitchen window, her forehead against the cool pane, gazing down at the lighted streets below. Far to the west she could see the lights of the gay street, Broadway. An advertising sign twinkled on and off, red and yellow, red and yellow, half a block away. Night sounds, sounds of the city throwing off its daytime mood of seriousness, making ready for play, came to her faintly. The hooting of taxis, the scrape of brakes. A radio blared out across the way. Dinner music. Somewhere down in the city men and girls were dancing to the strains of that music, were dining and smoking and laughing.

"I feel like Cinderella," Gypsy said to herself, trying to smile. But tears tricked at her eyelids. She swallowed hard. Why, she was being just a baby! She'd had to eat her dinner alone, before this. What was the matter with her?

WATSON GIVES REPORT FROM LIQUOR MEET

Details of a plan by which 180,000 men will be secured on petitions demanding that a new initiative measure amending the state liquor law be put on the August election, were explained to the 150 delegates at a San Francisco meeting last week. Mayor Clyde Watson of Orange announced today on his return from the north.

Watson represented Santa Ana, Orange and several other Orange county cities at the conclave and brought back detailed information on proposed amendments to the state statutes. He pointed out that the principal accomplishment of the gathering was the appointment of a committee of 10 men by Chairman James B. McChesney, president of the San Francisco supervisors.

This committee, which included Assistant District Attorney W. F. McChesney of Orange county, at Watson's request, will frame an amendment to be submitted to the voters. A proposed document presented by a hotel and restaurant group at the state at the meeting was branded as too involved to pass at an election and will be modified by the committee.

The restaurant proposal for state control while San Francisco sentiment was for city and county option. The latter group was level was in favor of a change to give cities more revenue from taxes. Under the present setup, 60 per cent of the net receipts will be turned over to the cities but there is so much expense with regulating the state liquor act that it is predicted there will be little or nothing left for the cities.

Many of the liquor interest represented including the Liquor Dealers of the United States, Inc., asked repeal of all liquor statutes except the provisions prohibiting sale to minors. They contended that a licensed liquor business would police itself. This attitude was drastically opposed by the group as a whole when a proposition embodying these principles was completely ignored.

Highlights of the restaurant and hotel proposal, which will be modified by the committee of 10, were as follows: complete state control, permits sale of beer but prohibits the sale of all other liquors at a bar; permits the serving of all intoxicating liquors by hotels and restaurants and bona fide clubs; granting and revoking licenses in power of board of equalization; permits the sale of intoxicating liquors in original packages not to be consumed on the premises, and requires the legislative to apportion amounts collected for license fees between the state and the cities and counties of the state.

TWO BOYS ARRIVE
FOR CELEBRATION
LIQUOR MEET

Preparations for the President's ball tonight meant little today to two little Orange county boys who hereafter will celebrate their birthdays on the same day with President Franklin D. Roosevelt. Neither boy has been named as yet.

The two babies are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Kramer of Placentia, born at 1:30 o'clock this morning, and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Weiss, 146 North Harvard street, Orange, who arrived at the St. Joseph's hospital shortly before noon.

BRADY, BARRYMORE
IN BROADWAY FILM

"Should Ladies Behave?" taken from that famous Broadway stage show, "The Vagabond King," comes to the Broadway theater today to show two days.

Starring Lionel Barrymore and Alice Brady, the picture should prove one of the best liked comedies of the year, for the stage show was one of the outstanding hits of the age.

It is the story of a mix-up of love affairs at a prominent hotel on Long Island during a week-end party. Every person is in love with the wrong other person, and there is a mad scramble before the plot is finally worked out.

Aside from the feature, a deep sea novelty, "Jumping Giants," a Scappy Cartoon, "The Auto Show," a James Miller musical, "The Last Dime," and a news reel also are on the program.

M. E. CHURCH NIGHT
PROGRAMS TO BEGIN

All plans have been completed for the presentation of the first of the Annual Church Night programs of the First Methodist church tomorrow night in the church building and will be preceded by a 6 o'clock dinner to be sponsored by the Friendly Circle class of the church.

Mrs. Jennie Tesson of the Santa Ana Junior college faculty will be the assembly speaker during the series of Church Nights to be held every Wednesday until March 31. She is discussing the general subject "Facing a New Era." Tomorrow night her topic will be "Meeting Old Intolerances."

Following the Assembly address the various classes will meet for discussion of the subjects for which they have enrolled.

Officials Charge
False Affidavit
Filed by S. A. Man

Charged with falsifying an affidavit, R. D. Goetz, 31, 2701 Main street, was arraigned in justice court today by Investigator Robert Sandon of the district attorney's office.

The alleged offense occurred on July 20, 1933, and Judge Kenneth Morrison set the preliminary hearing for February 2 at 9 a. m. and set bail at $1000, which Goetz posted and secured his release from the county jail. He was booked last night by Sandon.

Sandon charged that Goetz sent in a false affidavit to the state controller for a refund of $19.35 on gasoline purchased from a garage. Under the law, ranchers are entitled to a refund of the amount of state gas tax after they buy gasoline.

Mrs. Marie J. Gothard, 815 West Seventeenth street, told police that she believed a thief had entered the home of W. Joswick, 1718 Greenleaf street, probably on January 20 or 21, while the Joswick family was in Los Angeles. A screen was cut and a window jammed to gain entrance, but it had not been ascertained if anything was stolen.

Elizabeth Schmitt, 72, resident of Santa Ana for the past 10 years, following a severe illness of two weeks duration, died today at an Orange hospital. She had been ill since the earthquake nearly a year ago. A native of Germany, she had lived in the United States for 41 years.

She is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Charles A. Brown, of Orem, Utah, Mrs. Katherine Reagan and Mrs. Elizabeth S. Clark, of Santa Ana; two sisters, Mrs. Frank Bohm, of Eureka, Utah, and Mrs. Julia Lauer, of Berlin, Germany, and seven grandchildren.

Announcement of funeral services will be made later by the Harrell and Brown Funeral home.

Members of Homesteaders' Life association met in their hall last night for a covered dish dinner, served by Commander and Mrs. Edward Finch, Ida White and Glenn Hurst. The drill team was present and executed some of its formal maneuvers in conducting officers of the association to their places at the tables.

During the course of the evening applications of six new members were acted upon and Thurlow Lord and Mrs. Lord, captains of the competing membership teams, gave their reports, each working for the chicken dinner to be tendered by the losing team.

Interest was expressed in an approaching meeting when those who have served as presidents during the 37 years the association has functioned in Santa Ana, will meet at the officers' and present the ritualistic work that was in effect during their terms of office. After dinner hours were devoted to dancing and cards.

REGISTRATION
HIGH SCHOOL

Dropping 46 students lower this year than the September entrance 104 students registered in Santa Ana High school this week for second semester study, as compared to the 1090 that were here the first semester.

There are 360 seniors this semester, as compared to 300 last; 372 juniors to the previous 373; and 278 sophomores to 396 last semester. The remaining 34 students are post-graduates, students and junior college people taking part time work. Only 21 were in this fourth group last term.

"The large decrease in sophomores is caused by mid-year entering pupils from the junior high schools who stayed at Willard and Lathrop," stated D. K. Hammond, principal. "The high school is over-crowded with the number here now, and if repair work is to be undertaken, we might have to vacate some of the rooms used at present," Hammond concluded.

FARM PRODUCTS
PRICES HIGHER

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 30.—Prices of farm products are about one third higher than a year ago, George York, supervisor of the federal state market news service in California, reported to State Department of Agriculture A. A. Brock today. Although the rise in prices of farm products has contributed much to improve the conditions of farmers by more than offsetting reductions in the size of many crops, the benefit payments to farmers have been an important addition to farmers' incomes during recent months, York said.

The general level of prices received by farmers is now about the same as in December when the level was about 68 per cent of the 1910-1914 average, the market news supervisor commented.

Prices paid by farmers for commodities advanced one point from November, York said, to 113 per cent of the 1910-1914 average, whereas prices received by farmers declined three points.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 30.—(UP)—The Chicago Bears will make one more appearance before leaving Southern California, Coach George Halas announced today, disclosing they will meet an all-star aggregation at San Diego Sunday. The All-Stars will be composed of former U. S. C. and San Diego players and will be headed by Emy Pinckert.

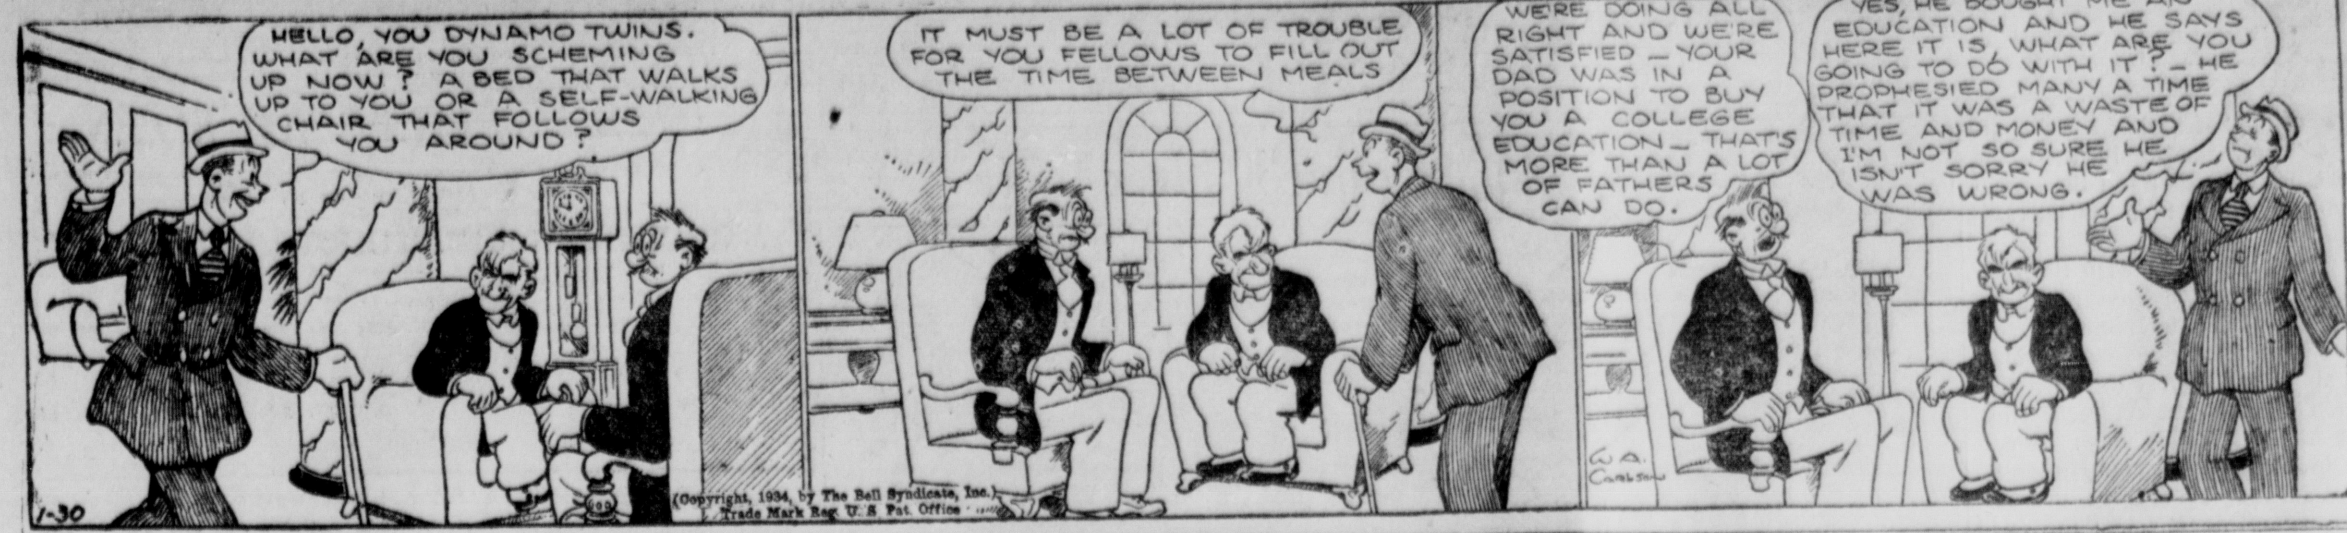

Past Chiefs Hold

TUSTIN, Jan. 30.—Past chiefs of Tustin Pythian Sisters met at the home of Mrs. Lettie Nordstrom recently, with Mrs. Nordstrom and Mrs. Edna Squire as co-hostesses. Artistic bowls of spring flowers were used in decorating the home.

Mrs. Bertha Triokey and Mrs. Ora Collar were initiated into the organization. Plans were made to hold a cooked food sale February 2 at the Pythian building for the benefit of the Tustin Sisters' home in the Valley of the Moon.

TUESDAY, JANUARY 30, 1934

A GREAT MAN MAKES A GREAT DAY

Today is the anniversary of the birth of President Franklin Delano Roosevelt. The nation will celebrate the anniversary of this event today, as it has never celebrated the anniversary of any living individual. And let it be remembered that it is a combination of circumstances that causes this outpouring of people, and the sentiment behind it, expressed in the purchase of millions of tickets for these events.

In the first place, the people have learned, personally, to love the President. They have found him to be a sincere friend and champion of the masses, and really looking after them with what appears to be almost a fatherly affection. Reared in the home of plenty, almost in luxurious surroundings, Franklin Delano Roosevelt is evidencing an understanding of the plight of the unemployed, their needs, their suffering, as if he had passed through these experiences himself.

Hence not only in those who have been aided, and within those who, through fear of need, were relieved in the thought of such a man as Chief Executive, but in the hearts of millions of others, to whom the thought has never come of any personal need, there arises an admiration and regard for this man who was moved as Lincoln was moved, as St. Francis was moved, and then uses his power to help along the road. Millions of people are responding who have not given the President's plan or programs their approval.

But as far as we know, none of them doubt the sincerity of purpose, and they are honoring this, even though they may think in his determination to be helpful he may be blundering greatly. This does not at all affect either the quality of nor the value of their response.

Another element in the President's character for which high regard is being evidenced today is that determined, fighting quality which has enabled him to overcome unusual physical handicaps. One way or other, there is a wonderful admiration for any man who fights against odds, for that one in whose soul "hope rises eternal," and who cannot be kept down, as long as he is conscious, by any blow that floors him.

The disease which tended to sap his power, and paralyze his limbs, might have done both to his spirit, and he would have become a dispirited, sour, unhappy individual, because of blighted hope and ambition. But no! Fully realizing that he could in no sense fully recover, he took advantage of every opportunity which he heard of to bring back a portion of his former vigor, and, inch by inch, he recovered that which was recoverable, and, in so doing, kept his mind happy and hopeful, functioning constantly 100 per cent.

This has challenged, as we have said, the admiration of the people of this country. And they are responding because of this admiration tonight.

Again, there has possibly never been a condition where a man has so expanded before the public gaze intellectually, and in all the elements of leadership, as has President Roosevelt since March 4th. While Mr. Roosevelt had been a good governor of New York, there had not come before him questions of sufficient magnitude and challenging importance to bring out those elements of power which were within him. He has proceeded in a really marvelous way, carrying on with constantly increasing power granted him by a willing Congress.

He has retained the friendship, and in a large measure, the confidence of people of all phases of economic belief and of political bias. He has kept the country united upon the most unusual program that could be imagined, and he still retains that confidence. So from all groups and factions and strata of society, today they are honoring our national Chief Executive, and are making contributions to the endowment of the institution which the President himself has started, in honor of the help he received from the organization at Warm Springs, Georgia.

So let us aid tonight. We are for the President in this great enterprise, regardless of how we may differ with him at any time; regardless of any failures that may come to him on his plans; regardless of any handicaps. We are glad to join in as citizens of a great nation, admirers of a great man, supporters of a great President, in that which he has founded out of gratitude for his restored health and strength. It is a great day, and it will do the nation good.

SISTER NATIONS IN DISTRESS

So many of our people labor under the delusion that our social and economic and financial problems are peculiar to the United States. That delusion will be immediately shattered by a perusal of the business index of Canadian industry for the last five years. Canada, during the last four years, has been through a very similar experience to the one we have been going through. Business there has had its collapse and its steady drop, with just an occasional rise.

The Canadian dollar is on a par with our dollar. If we have a 63-cent dollar, they have one, too. If we have a perilous deflation of prices, they have had the same there. In August, 1929, their business index reached its highest point, 104.2, 4.2 points above normal. That same month our index was 115.6, 15.6 points above normal. During the intervening period up to now, we and they have been running very nearly parallel. For the end of December, 1933, the index stands, the United States, 69.2, a little over 30 points below normal; Canada, 51.3, nearly 50 points below normal.

These statistics, and they are matched to a greater or lesser extent in all the countries with similar industrial economies, indicate that, as Robert Burns said, "affliction's sons are brothers in distress." For good or ill, the world has become a great brotherhood; and the shocks in one are bound to be felt to a considerable degree by all.

In it all we must be impressed with the folly of tariff barriers such as have been raised on the borders of all lands. To intercept the reasonable flow of goods across national boundaries must inevitably lead to just the economic collapse from which we hope we are recovering.

A recent writer has put it this way: A colony of mice lives in three sealed compartments. One group has a surplus of cheese; the second group has a surplus of crackers; the third has a surplus of water. But there is no interchange of goods between them. The result is each group has to divert its energies to create the needs which the two other groups can supply to the mutual advantage of all. This, says the writer, is what the nations are doing to their own hurt and estrangement. Is it any wonder that George Bernard Shaw could say that the earth must have been created by the Sovereign of the Universe to be the lunatic asylum of His creation?

THE LIFE LINE THESE FOGGY NIGHTS

The Register, a few days ago, received a letter from a man in Anaheim, B. E. Raymond. The following is a copy:

I wish The Register would write something regarding the white stripes on our highways. It seems after they are once painted, the county forgets or neglects keeping them painted. I think for safety's sake, this would be very necessary.

If they could see us all workers feeling our way along the road, these heavy, foggy nights, wishing and trying to find a white stripe to follow, the county might see it our way. Besides it would help keep some boys working. From Garden Grove to Huntington Beach the white stripe is about gone.

We hardly believe that this letter needs any emphasis on our part. Who has not had experience in the deep fog, trying to find his way home, and the only landmark that could show us anything was the white line in the center of the road, and when this disappeared at any point, we were "all at sea"? And then we did not know at what point we were on the road, whether we were on the right side or the left side, until we had passed down the road and caught up again with the distinguishing mark.

It is the one thing that can be seen in the fog. It is the one thing that guides us. It is a little thing, inexpensive. With the great number of people who are working, there is no reason why all of our highways should not be marked in the center with this white line. We have no doubt but what the supervisors, or the state department, those who have charge of our highways, will be glad to see that this is done.

Driving Them Out

Bakersfield Californian

It is always the part of cowards to test the leadership of the men they profess to follow. So common has it been at all times that in the old sailing ship days, the captain began to prove his worth to his crew at the beginning of his voyage. They soon learned who was master on the ship.

Other pests of a more subtle kind are the parasites that obstruct the work of leaders by pretense to outsiders that they have influence with him they do not possess. They have no loyalty to the cause represented by the leader, and are only interested in making profit for themselves. They would scuttle the ship of state for their own ends.

President Roosevelt, like all other leaders, but none with so important a position as his, has had to deal with many such men since he entered the White House. Professed followers, and members of his own party, have tried all means of "pull" and "influence." Now they are learning that the President is their commander, and he has ordered them from Washington.

We all know the political racketeer who tries to sell his pull or his influence in high quarters. He is a local growth as well as a thriving plant in state and national capitals. He has the ambition, and often the ability, to make others believe that he can do them a service through his influence, and, of course, he makes his services profitable.

If people would only consider the true nature of things they would see that the best kind of pull or influence is a man's own merit. President Roosevelt is not in the White House because of any other influence than his own demonstrated ability to face his foes; to make staunch friends; to use his brains in the mastery of public questions, and political problems. The record of Presidents of the United States proves that as a rule they have been men of courage, and more than average ability. Some of them may have been less efficient than the men they defeated for office, but that also means that their competitors were also men of ability to be chosen as their opponents.

It has been suggested that the President could make a name for himself by creating a new political atmosphere for the nation by trying to abolish all patronage, whose background is mere influence and not the public good. Meantime he has as much as he can do to get this nation back to normal conditions.

Waterway Is Operative

Detroit News

Most people who talk of the St. Lawrence Waterway are thinking of it as something that may come into existence in the future. That is quite incorrect. It exists; it is working; 2000 miles of carrying traffic both ways between American and Canadian ports and it had an especially good year in the not too prosperous season of 1933.

While navigation was open the past year freight came to the Great Lakes from Europe, from the Atlantic seaboard, from Cuba, Newfoundland and elsewhere. One hundred thirty-four cargoes came for ports of the United States upon the Great Lakes and fifty-five came from Canadian lake ports. Canada sent out fifty-six cargoes and the United States sixty-four.

That was commerce that made its way through the present shallow, incomplete channels. It seems an encouraging outlook for the waterway when the international treaty is adopted and the entire length of the route is completed to a minimum depth of that of the splendid Welland Canal.

LINES BY A STAY-AT-HOME

I do not want to visit Mars
Or any of the other stars;
I should not meet
Upon the street
A person that I know there.
Why should I waste my useful time
In studying a stellar climate Or Martian men
And women when
I don't expect to go there?

I don't believe that in my day
A single ship will sail away
With any hope
Of getting home
On far sidereal regions.
I'd much prefer to see Bombay—
An interesting place, they say—
Or drink a slug
Of potent "glug"
Among the four Norwegians.

Why should I spend my days and nights
In yearning for exciting flights?
Had I a ship
To take a trip
And men enough to man it
And knew that safely I should land
Upon some bright and shining strand,
My life I'd spend
Until the end
Right here upon this planet.

Thoughts On Modern Life

By GLENN FRANK

BREEDING A NEW LEADERSHIP

One of the major needs of American public life in the next decade will be a more richly trained body of administrative servants to carry out the popular will as voiced in legislation. An expansion and enrichment of the role of the state in American affairs is inevitable.

This expansion and enrichment will obviously take place if the point of view held by Mr. Roosevelt continues to dominate our public councils. Under such leadership it will come rapidly. It is not, however, wholly dependent upon continuation of the Roosevelt philosophy. Events will force a broadening of the role of the state upon even the conservative leadership of a possible counter-reform administration.

This expansion of the role of the state in our national life may mean retrogression under a purely political bureaucracy or it may mean creative advance under an expertly trained body of public servants.

If I have any worry about the swift strokes of the Roosevelt administration, it is that we may create new mechanisms of control faster than we have an adequately trained army of controllers to run them.

The federal government should now be joining hands with the great universities in setting up the educational facilities for training a growing body of first-class men who will be able to bring to the growing responsibilities of government a broad and philosophical appreciation of the problems of human society as well as an expert knowledge of the specific issues of economics and government.

Ultimately, as the role of government increases with the growing complexity of our national life, we may have to create an institution, under federal auspices, that will be to the public service generally what West Point and Annapolis are to the service of army and navy.

Meanwhile the thing should be worked out experimentally through cooperation between the federal government and a few of our leading universities.

Our Children

By Angelo Patri

SCHOOL BAGGAGE

Children go to school loaded like camels. Much of the burden is self imposed. They love to carry a pile of books, a lunchbox, a pencil box, a top, something to show the teacher, until they fairly stagger under the load. And sometimes some of the burden is imposed by the school. Thoughtlessly, for it is never necessary for a child to carry all the books and material he owns, or uses. A little supervision by his class teacher soon adjusts that. It requires a lot more supervision by the mothers to reduce the rest of the pile.

"What have you there, Jerry?" "My school books and my pencil box, and my lotto and a couple of apples."

"Dear, dear. And what is this?" "That's a book I want to show the teacher because it has birds in it and she told us to learn all we could about birds so I'm taking her the book."

"I see. But I'm sure the teacher would not like to have you carry all those things to school. They're too heavy, and you have no place for them, and—"

"Oh, no they aren't. O, yes she would. I have lots of room in my desk."

To make him leave the collection at home means a battle. The infant class longs to look as important as the sixth graders who carry such a nice pile of books heaped on a world geography as a base. They imitate the pile as closely as they can. When they get to school the teacher is distressed beyond measure by the baggage.

Going up and downstairs becomes a matter of great nicety. If a precious pencil box falls, and it always does, the owner must stop and gather the scattered treasure, and the others must help. A class spread over the stairs, groping among a forest of feet and legs for bits of rubber and chalk and stubby pencils is enough to drive the teacher out of her mind. And then, the line having been dressed once more, and the procession started again, down goes another precious piece of baggage and the war is on once more. It is dangerous, wasteful, irritating to children and teachers alike.

The youngster who carries a load of baggage to school often remembers that it is lying unattended in his desk at about the time the teacher is reaching the critical stage of the lesson. His head is buried under the desk. All the teacher can see of him now is the unpeeped part of him and that is not usually presented to her view. She stands it as long as she can and finally stops the lesson to say, "Peter, would you mind telling us what you are doing?"

"Fixing my things, Miss Miller."

"Hm. Well, we're having a number lesson and it might be as well for you to attend to it and let those things alone for the present."

"Yes'm," says he, but before long he is called back to the thing of his desire, his head disappears again, and the teacher calls him. Much better if he could be persuaded to leave his things at home.

Look the youngsters over in the morning. They start off in the morning. Have them leave marbles, clock wheels, old keys, buttons, strings, bolts, chestnuts, papers, and chewing gum at home. Lighten their load, relieve the teacher and improve their attention to school work.

An ancient chain, doubtless used by Indians working under Franciscan padres in the construction of San Juan Capistrano mission, was presented by E. R. Halesworth to Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce. A similar chain was to be given Father St. John O'Sullivan at the Mission. The chains had been in the barn of ranch property that Halesworth had secured from a Mr. Riveline in 1887, and at that time Riveline explained where the chains had come from and their use.
